Mr. Smith goes to Washington

The Tribes' General Manager Ken Smith left for Washington D.C. last Wednesday with the keys to the office of Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Indian Affairs jingling in his pocket. He has accepted the B.I.A. post and Senate confirmation hearings are anticipated in mid-March.

He has passed all routine background checks including FBI and IRS scrutiny. According to a reliable source, "Ken is as pure as driven snow and passed with flying colors."

Smith will be at the Capitol for about a month getting a staff together and working on the budget. But during that time he will also be commuting to Warm Springs to help with the transition here. He will have to give up his position here as General Manager since it would represent a conflict of interest if he didn't.

He plans to meet with the Tribal Council around the first of March to discuss the transition. He says he doesn't expect there will be many changes.

Smith said he "doesn't look at it as leaving Warm Springs." He emphasized that he will take on the position of Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Indian Affairs for only four years. "That's about all I could take of Washington, D.C.," he remarked.

He views the new job as a "detail" — his mission being "to get the Bureau in shape." He also sees his new task as a challenge. "It's an opportunity to help all tribes, not just Warm Springs."

At his "last lunch" with the tribal supervisors Feb. 16, Rudy Clements announced that the Indian Resource Panel had, by motion, supported Smith for his nomination as well as continued support during his tenure in office. Clements indicated that so often support is initially offered to "one of our own," then when he gets in office people start hacking away at him. Smith was also endorsed by N.C.A.I., the Affiliated Tribes of N.W. Indians and other prominent Indian organizations.

What particularly pleases Smith is that Secretary of Interior James Watt has given him complete authority to run Indian Affairs. "This is one of the few times that a position at this high level has been accepted by a nominee without key positions directly under the Asst. Secretary not already filled," noted a tribal source.

This gives Smith the opportunity to develop the staff of his choice in these key positions," the source added. Watt has made the commitment to let Smith run the B.I.A.

Updated information on the management transition here in Warm Springs will be forthcoming following Smith's meetings with the Tribal Council.

Three elected to Siletz Tribal Council

Joann Miller, Elouise Case and Edward L. Case were recently elected from a field of ten persons to fill three seats on the Siletz Tribal Council.

The tribal members also voted to give pay to all nine members of hours they spend on council business according to, Bernard Topash, superintendent of the Siletz tribe.

The council members were elected to a three year term. It was approved to give members $5 an hour spent on tribal business, "as funds are available," Topash said.

The reservation consists of approximately 3,300 acres of land after the Siletz reservation act was signed by President Carter in September 1980.

The Siletz regained tribal status in 1977.
