Locals attend boxing tourney

The tournament was held in Reno, Nevada January 30-31 and February 1, in the MGM Grand Hotel.

Some of the best amateur boxers gathered for the tourney which saw plenty of action from all of the boxers. Billy Joe Berry won the 16-19 year old 119 lbs. special senior division. In his first bout Berry defeated Kyle Corpus of Yakima, Washington. In his second bout Berry lost to Avon Gallagher of San Mateo, California. Gallagher was withdrawn from competition by his coach which permitted Berry to advance to the championship boxing match.

In the championship bout, Berry defeated John Jim from Yakima, Washington. John Sampson came home a runner-up in the 16-19 year old special senior division. In his first bout Sampson defeated Robert Rodriguez of Stockton, California. This was a very tough bout but Sampson just out-boxed him. In Rodriguez' first bout, he TKO'd Baker of Reno. Rodriguez was a big and tough kid. In the championship match Sampson lost to J.C. Comachs of San Francisco, California.

Lawrence Caldera also came home a runner-up in the 125 lbs. 16-19 year old special senior division. Caldera lost his bout with Bruce Sam of Burns, Oregon.

In the semi-finals, Guy Herkshan in the 125 lb. 14-15 year-old open division had two bouts. In the first match he defeated Mike Simmons of Hayward, California and then lost to Matt Enslow of Tacoma, Washington. This was a close and hard-fought match. It was said the decision could have gone either way.

Jeff Sam, 106 lbs, in the quarter-finals of the 14-15 year-old division lost to Hector Colon, Jr. of Hayward, California. Sam built an early lead but Colon's 39 fight experience proved too much for the young boxer.

In the semi-finals Byron Berry, 156 lbs, in the special senior division was defeated by Lem Sneed of San Francisco, California. It was reported that this was a very questionable bout and that the spectators disagreed with the decision. Coach Gerald Smith said, "When one of my boxers lost, I have no questions when it is close bout and the decision could go either way. I may have a question, but that's the way it goes. In this case I totally disagree with the decision."

Todd Danzuka, 165 lbs., in the semi-finals open senior division, lost a hard-fought bout to Hank Gonzalez of San Francisco, California. The local boxing team has been doing quite well for the young boxers and with a little more experience things could look a lot better.

The following is the schedule for the local boxing team, February 21-22, Spokane Boxing tournament; Feb. 28, March 1, Yakima All-Indian Boxing tournament; March 7-8 Oregon Jr. Golden Gloves boxing tournament in Hood River, Oregon; March 14-15 the Evergreen boxing tournament in Kelso, Washington; March 21-22, the WSBC Buckskin Glove boxing tournament here in Warm Springs, Oregon.

Mini-Marathon March 7

With the Simnasho Mini-Marathon only two weeks away, local people are invited to help promote the run. Manpower before or during the run is also needed. For those who wish to help, but find their time limited, a cash donation would be appreciated or the donation of an item for the raffle could be used.

This year's proceeds from the Mini-Marathon will go to an educational trip to the Oregon coast for the 16 Simnasho 4-H "Discovery Club" members. They will be going first to Portland to visit the zoo, then to the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry and on to the Forestry Center. From Portland they will go to Astoria for a tour of the Astor column and then on the Tillamook for a tour of the famous cheese factory there. Much time will be spent at the Coast where the students will become acquainted with the beach and its many fascinations before returning to Warm Springs.

The students have mailed out over 4,000 entry forms to various clubs, organizations and the media. Last year there were over 300 runners participating. This year many more are expected.

The main run begins at Simnasho and ends at Kah-Nee-Ta. Runners will compete for trophies and two nights lodging at Kah-Nee-Ta for first place in both the men and women divisions in the 14.5 mile run. Another run also featuring a trophy for first place is the six-mile run ending at Kah-Nee-Ta Village. A three mile Run-For-Fun will be held just for the fun of it.

Raffle tickets are being sold for items that have been donated by local people and merchants. Some of the items include a beaded bag, a trip down the Deschutes River and gift certificates from local merchants. Tickets can be purchased from Simnasho school parents for $1.00 a chance.

A running clinic will be held Friday night March 6 and Saturday morning, March 7. A few running tips will be passed on at these sessions.

Several renowned runners are expected at this year's run. University of Oregon women's distance runner Eryne Forbes will be in the competition along with Maurice Friton, also from the University of Oregon. Possibly Bruce Nelson, winner of last year's run, will again be present. Other runners who may be in attendance are Rudy Chappa and Alberto Salazar who gained national recognition after setting a new record in the New York City Marathon in 1980.

The Simnasho 4-H "Discovery" Club gives thanks to Millie Colwash and all those people who bought raffle tickets for the Mini-affle during the Lincoln's Birthday Powwow in Simnasho.

Mini-Marathon entries can be found at various places in Warm Springs including the Extension office in the Old Administration building and at the Community Center. The mailing address for entries is: Simnasho 1981 Mini-marathon, C/O Winona Strong, P.O. Box 776, Warm Springs, Oregon 97761. If there are any questions or for additional information please contact Rich Little at 553-1200 or at 553-1704.

Teen Club takes second at Yakima

Out of twelve teams that entered the Yakima Nation High School's basketball tourney last weekend, the Warm Springs Teen Club placed a respectable second. The tourney was held at Toppenish, Washington and was the school's first annual basketball tournament.

Two local boys, Jay Suppah and Allen Gilbert, placed on the all-star team. They both received all-star jackets.

The ten boys who traveled with the team were: Robert Heath, Floyd Frank, Sterling Kalama, Allen Gilbert, Jay Suppah, Deveal Winishut, Larry Shike, Morris Johnson, Landy Doney and Vernon Tias.

The Teen Club extends thanks to the Warm Springs

Confederated Tribes and the community center for sponsoring them at the Yakima Nation High School Basketball Tournament. They also give a special thanks to Lorraine Suppah for keeping the score book for the past three years.

The team appreciates the Warm Springs people who followed them over and gave them their support.

Swim-A-Thon planned

The Early Childhood Parent Club is organizing a Swim-A-Thon at Kah-Nee-Ta Village on February 28 to benefit the local March-of-Dimes organization and to buy Christmas gifts for those in the Early Childhood program at Warm Springs. The Feb. 28 event will take place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. that day.

This project is the first of its kind in this area according to coordinator Margie Earl. She said that the River Room will be opened up and that admission to the pool will be for both participating swimmers and spectators.

The fund-raising will involve the pledging of monies for each lap completed during the time specified. The proceeds will be split 50/50 between the March of Dimes organization and the Early Childhood program.
