Local boxers keep a busy schedule

The Warm Springs boxing team traveled to the Inland Empire Junior and Senior Golden Glove Boxing Tournament held at Spokane, Washington February 21-22. A total of 264 boxers competed in three rings.

There were 12 boxers in the 10-11 year old 65 pound division. Renolds Allen lost a decision to David Reidt of the Spokane Eagles boxing team. He just couldn't get into the act, one of those bad days for Allen.

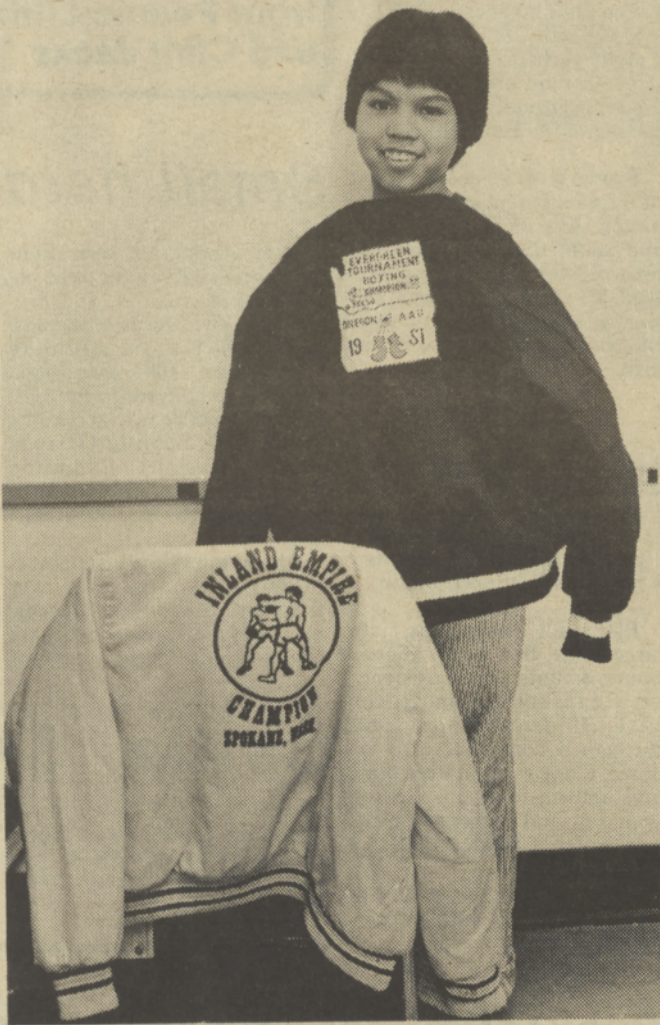

Johnny James Sampson, in the special Sr. 139-pound class, stopped Scott Walker in the first round. Walker was boxing for Maries Elks of Canada. But then in the next bout Sampson lost to Trey Duren of the South Everett, Washington boxing team. It was a very close bout. In the championship match Duren beat Gerald Peters from Alberta B.C., Canada.

Tony Stacona moved up in weight class from 85 pounds to the 90-pound class. In his first bout he stopped Bret Taggart of Hamilton, Canada, in the first round with a good solid right hook. In his second bout Stacona decided Justin Jenkins of Bonners Ferry, Idaho in a close bout. In the championship bout he defeated Wayne Hall from the Kootenai boxing club from Idaho.

Boxing coach Gerald Smith said, "This gave me a chance to see Tony in action, and even though he won the championship there are some areas that he definitely needs to work on. He needs work in those areas due to being rusty from not getting any bouts. All of this is a course of actions where we intend to prepare Tony for the Oregon Junior Olympics VIA Oregon Junior Golden Gloves," said Smith.
