

509-J school meal policy

Jefferson County School District 509-J today announces its policy for free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals under the National School Lunch and School Breakfast programs.

Local school officials have adopted the attached family size and income criteria for determining eligibility. Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free meals, or reduced price meals. Families will be notified within ten days of their eligibility for reduced prices or free meals.

Application forms will be distributed to all parents and are available at the school office. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. Social Security numbers of all adult members in the household are required on the application. If approved for meal benefits, any changes in household size and change in income of more than $50 a month must be reported to the school administrator. Incomplete or inaccurate applicants will be denied any benefits of the program.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application form contains a statement above the space of signature, certifying that all information furnished in the application is being made in connection with the receipt of federal funds, that school officials may verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and Federal criminal statutes.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If families have foster children living with them and wish to apply for such meals for them they should contact the school administrator.

Under the provisions of the policy, the principals will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, they may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If the applicant wishes to make a formal appeal, they may make a request either orally or in writing to the hearing official, Phillip S. Riley, Assistant

Geo-Quiz

We finally had a winner in our Geo Quiz. Celia Berry correctly identified the photo as being between mile posts 15 and 16, on highway 4, the Tenino Road. Here is another photo for someone to identify its location and win a year's subscription of Spilyay Tymoo for yourself or have it mailed to a friend. One winner per person a year. Call 553-1644.

becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should file a new application. Such changes may affect the eligibility of the children.

In the administration of school food service programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.

Each school and the office of the superintendent has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

College of Fisheries acting director

Jeannette Casimir

the Lummi Indian School of Aquaculture in 1973 and has been the Assistant Director during the past seven years.

Ms. Casimir, who was instrumental in the candidate for accreditation status of the college will guide the administration of the college until a director is named by the Trustees.

The Lummi College of Fisheries holds a unique place among two-year colleges in the United States. An Indian owned and operated institution the college serves students from all 50 states and its student population throughout the years have included representatives from more than 60 different tribes ranging from Maine to Alaska. The primary emphasis of the college is fishery science including marine and freshwater fish biology and shellfish culture.

Lummi Island, Washington-The Board of Trustees of the Lummi College of Fisheries has named Jeannette Casimir, a Tlingit Indian formerly of Kake, Alaska as Acting Director of the college. Ms. Casimir has been with the college since its beginning as Few colleges can match the college's laboratories. On the campus are located a mini-fish hatchery, shellfish hatchery and complete scientific labs. This is supported by a 750 acre aquaculture pond, a sea lab designed for acclimating salmon to salt water, an oyster hatchery that annually produces over one hundred million seed oysters, and a fish hatchery that produces over ten million fry per year.

Students often collect samples of clams off the beaches of the campus and from islands within site of the campus are abalone, sea urchin and other abundant sea life.

The college also offers courses designed to aid the commercial fisherman of the Pacific Coast. Technical instruction (toward an A.A. Fisheries Technology Degree) range from marine safety practices, through motor repairs and boat construction and handling.

Ms. Casimir anticipates a student enrollment for the fall quarter (1982) of 60 to 75 students.

For the elk hunters

Big Game rifles hunters should be aware of changes in the signing system for cooperative road closures on the Paulina and Snow Mountain Ranger Districts, Ochoco National Forest. Past years closure system entailed using a yellow sign on all closed roads stating "Closed to Motor Vehicles."

This year, only the open roads for travel will be identified by a green 4" disk attached to road sign posts. All closed roads will not be signed. A road not marked with a green disk is closed to motorized travel. One exception is made in the posting program. When an open road is closed along with route, a yellow closure sign is used to designate the beginning of the closed portion.

Maps will be available at both local USFS and ODFW offices and at major entrance points to the closed areas to aid the users in correctly using the system.

Reduced funding levels forced both agencies to look for a new signing system in order to retain the popular road closure programs that was endorsed by over 90 percent of the hunters. Rather than give up the program entirely, it was decided to try the labor saving green disk system for one year to check its use and acceptance by the public.
