The Executioner wielded a bloody ax at fellow employees.

Entourage of ghouls inhabited Warm Springs on Halloween.

Trick or treat, give me something good to eat.

Cold chilling winds whipped through the moonlit streets on Halloween but miniature ghouls, monsters, clowns and Extra Terrestrial travelers braved the weather for the yearly trek to "trick or treat" for candy and other goodies.

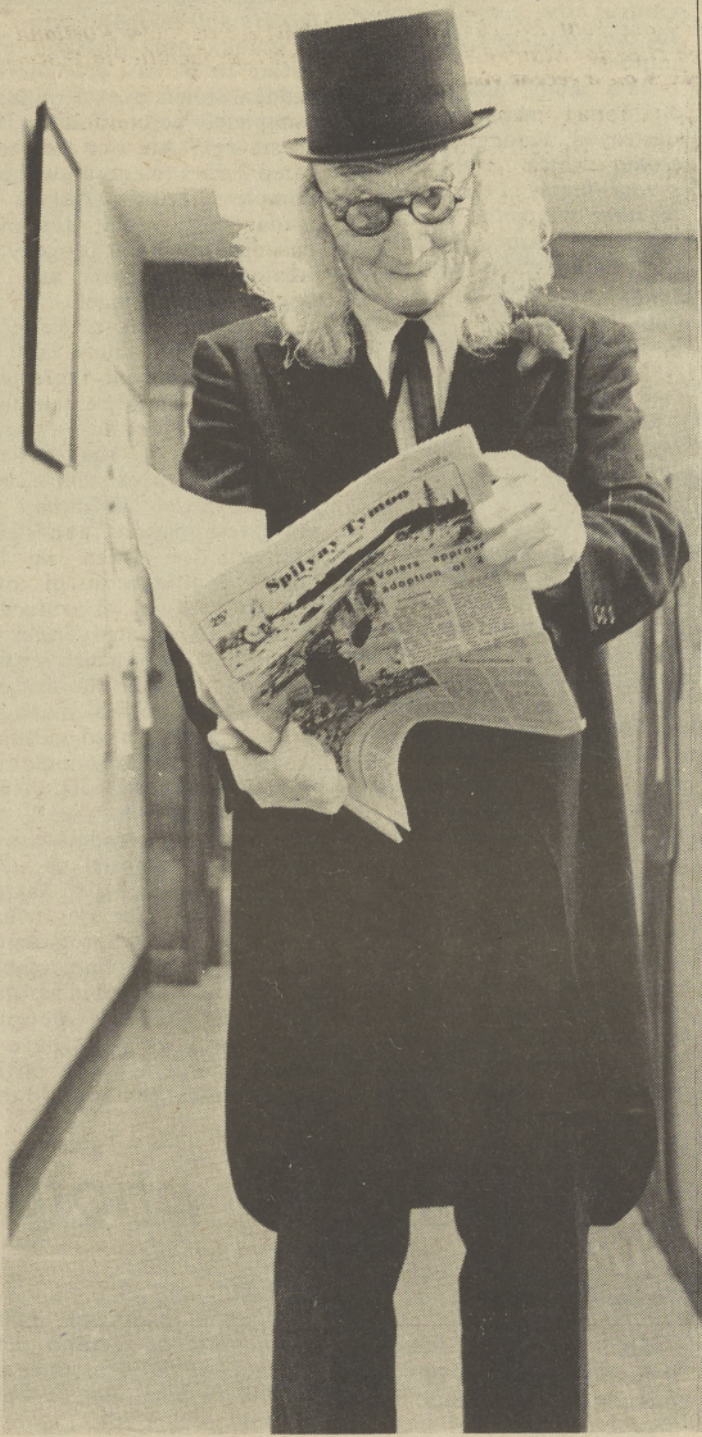

This year more adults took to the streets, going with their children on the trick or treat rounds through neighborhoods. Even in Warm Springs, the scare of tampered candies and fruits was evident for there were less children out and those who were out were more often than not accompanied by adults.

Following the two hours set for trick or treating, the Halloween party at the Community Center welcomed everyone with a carnival atmosphere. Contests were held for costumes in various age groups. Games were played and a fun house was for the brave to enter and face its mysteries.

The streets are quiet now and the tiny costumed creatures of Halloween have passed through the event in safety. It was a Happy Halloween for all.

Annual Halloween carnival drew "fun bunch" to the Center.
