

Halloween madness hits employees

The only monster to be found, Jerry Sampson startled nearly everyone with his ugly, two-headed mask.

Heading to the administration building, Headstart trailer kids tromped across the campus, anxious to get on with trick-or-treating.

Orthelia Miller spoofed and blessed many fellow-employees. Her costume, including mask and mala, was chosen to resemble that of the real Bhagwan.

The tribal personnel office operated as usual despite costumes and masks. Frances Allen got a chuckle from a prospective employee.

Sidney Miller had "Spock" ears to better hear the news

Data witch Tricia Bhogum donned her hat and rode her broom to work

Photos by Spilyay Tymoo staff