The Madras White Buffaloes charge past the Cougars of Mt. View of Bend, in a non-league basketball game on the Madras home court on January 3. The Buffs now boast a 6-2 record so far before league play starts later on this month.

Buff's handle Mt. View

The Madras White Buffaloes varsity basketball team stamped over the Cougars of Mt. View from Bend 60-43, in a non league game Tuesday January 3.

Both teams played a ragged game but a win is a win said coach Blincoe. It was the Buffaloes show from the start to the finish as they out shot, out rebounded and out played their opponents in every category, however they had some trouble at the foul line. The Buff's led at half time 24-15, and were never in any serious trouble through out the game.

Ray Waldorf led the Buff scoring attack with 13 points and he done a good job on the rebounds. Boggs added 12 points, Fine 11, Hausinger 8, Madden 6, Fialia and Cy Jim each had 4 and Lawrence 2, to round out the scoring for the Buffs.

The Buffaloes hit the road on January 6, for a return game with White Salmon, Washington. In the previous game with White Salmon which the Buffaloes won quite handly, there were two returnees from last years squad who didn't see any action because of illness and injury. The White Salmon team should be in full strength for this game, so this could be a whole new ball game with their home court advantage said coach Blincoe.

The White Buffaloes are 6-2 so far in preseason play and hope to up their mark in White Salmon. There is one more non league game in Madras Tuesday January 10, with Crook County. In the first meeting between these two clubs Madras came away with the win on their home floor. This could be an interesting game as the Cowboys have won a couple of league games in the Inter-Mountain league so far this year.

The Buffs will hit the road for their first league game with Grant Union in John Day, on January 20. The first home game will be on January 21 with Vale. The Buffs will face their opponents one by one and see what the outcome will be.

25th Annual Holiday tourney won by S.D.

Jim Walker and Ken Billingsley teamed up to pour in 18 points apiece to lead the South Dakota team past the Warm Springs Magpies 77-74, in the final seconds of the championship game.

In a seesaw ball game South Dakota outlasted the Magpies after Roman Suppah missed his final shot at the final buzzer. If Suppah had made the shot which would have been a three point basket, the game would have gone into overtime. The shot hit the rim bounced around and finally falling away as the crowd ood and awd as they saw the Magpies chances slip away.

Art Hernandez led the Magpie scoring with 28 points, Roman Suppah contributed 16 points and pulled down his share of rebounds to keep the Magpies in contention throughout the game.

South Dakota out-scored the Magpies in the first quarter 23-20, led by Bill Pourier with four field goals for eight points, Ken Billingsley six points, Austin Richards and Barry Main each three points and Jim Walker 2 points. During intermission the Magpies managed to surge ahead and led 43-38. The third period is where the Magpies went into a little slump and South Dakota made their move and outscored the Magpies 24-16, to regain the lead of 62-59, a three point difference. In the final quarter both teams scored 15 points apiece thus giving South Dakota the three point margin and the championship. at the final buzzer. Rounding out the scoring for South Dakota, Bill Pourier 17, Barry Main, Austin Richard 7, Byron In-The-Woods 6, and Tally Plume two. Scoring for Magpies were David Tucker 15, Austin Greene 11, and Arlene Rasmussen four.

The Dakota dominance was not present this year as in the past. This year in the final game they had to reach to the bottom of their magic bag to pull out the win. Their last two games were won by the skin of their teeth getting by the Oregon Travelers 93-91. In that game Ron Jones led all scorers with 35 points for the Travelers. Also in that game the Travelers were without the services of Kip Archinmault. Had he been in the game speculation is the championship game would have been between the Oregon Travelers and the Magpies instead of South Dakota and the Magpies.

In the game for third place the Pendleton team beat the Oregon Travelers in overtime 108-103. At the end of regulation play both teams were knotted at 99 points apiece. During the five minute overtime period the Pendleton team managed to score nine points to four for the Travelers. This giving Pendleton third place and the Travelers fifth.

Pendleton was led by Brooker and Buck Jones who scored 37 and 36 points respectively. The brothers scored a total of 73 points between the two of them to lead their team to win the S. Rubern added 12, Bub Bronson nine, Jamie Jim six, Punky Bronson and Vic Sohappay each score four. For the Oregon Travelers, Jerome Davis scored 24, Kevin LittleGeorge 21, LittleGeorge was the only player to make a slamming slam dunk throughout the entire tourney. Gary George and Dion Smith scored 16 apiece, Jay Keyes 12, Norris Palmanteer eight and Bob Main six.

The Travelers were in pretty good shape during the intermission holding a 13 point lead. In the second half Pendleton caught the Travelers sleeping and out-scored them 29-21 and 37-27 in the final plus overtime to claim the 108-103 win. The Osage Warriors of Oklahoma beat Klawock, Alaska 80-63 for fourth place.

Jim Walkers of the South Dakota team was voted the most valuable player for the tournament and the Klawock, Alaska team took the sportsmanship trophy. The following are the all-stars for the tournament: from South Dakota Jim Walker, Barry Mann and Bill Pourier; from the Magpies Art Hernandez, Roman Suppah and Dave Tucker; Buck and Brooker Jones from Pendleton; Scott Sumpter Osage Warriors; Jerome Davis from the Oregon Travelers; Sid Edenshaw of Klawock, Alaska; Bill Redwine of Arizona; Tracy Otis of Gym Rats; Al Doublerunner Yakima Players; and Toot Pennington Warm Springs Cougars.

In the championship game Bill Pourier of South Dakota goes high to score two points in a seesaw game from start to finish. South Dakota finally came out the winners 77-74. Also pictured are Barry Mann, Arlen Reaussean, Austin Greene, David Tucker and Ken Billingsley.
