Letters to the Editor—

Family grateful for support, help during loss

To all our friends and relatives,

Please accept our heartfelt thanks for sharing our grief and loss.

The combined efforts of the police and medicine people of Warm Springs, Madras, Redmond and Bend, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shike, Sr., and family, Mr. Don Holiday, Eliza and Family, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Wesley, Mr. and Mrs. Farley Eaglespeaker, for being there with us when we were informed of Greg's death. You were all such a comfort to us.

Our unending prayers and love to Sylvia Wallulatum and Matilda Mitchell for preparing Gregory's traditional ceremonial clothing. We send strong prayers for your strength and well being, also Nettie Showaway, for your powerful voice in the Washut Services.

Thank you Faye Compo and Vesta Sanders, for coming to be with us from Lapwai, Idaho. Most of all for making it possible for Gregory's father, Charles Cleveland Jackson to be here.

And so that all will be aware, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Meanus, Sr., accompanied us to the site of the accident and conducted final rites prayer services.

Our special thanks to the Shaker Church members led by Les Howtopat and his brother Johnny; for the three-night lighting the home services.

The courage and calming effects came through the efforts of drummers, dancers and singers of the Washut services, before, during and after the complete services.

The testimony of all whom bore witness to the Son of God, Jesus Christ, and Naomi Pst, Piyap, ku Anita. The pure of heart testimony brings reassurance of faith from the past to the present and for the here after, too many to name from all faiths and walks of life.

Not to forget all those who labored in caring for the people by cooking, serving and cleaning: Romagene Joe and "crews"; Silas and Prunie for helping Tibbs; Neda for asking for the donations from the Council people, to them our gratitude also; and those of you who brought gifts for the giveaway and money to help with the expenses; Colwash family for the boutoniere; Millie for chauffering us to Stayton, Oregon.

To all of you, (too many to name) for your kindness and presence made it all a very worthy farewell to our loved one, Gregory Ned Jackson, Kauyanamkt.

With deepest respect,

Eva and Betty Lou George

God Bless you all.

For Ray Rangila, who gave patience and understanding for all the time away from the job and last, but not least, for Richard Craig for being with her, giving love and care during the last months—a very deep and warm thank you.

During her lifetime she touched many lives, with love, kindness, unselfishness, generosity and teachings. She was, indeed, a special person and you who knew her have reenforced that she walked a special path, for you cared.

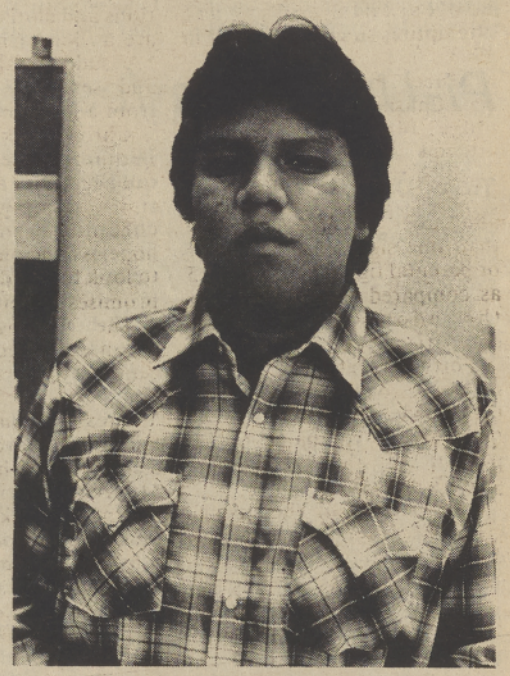
Pair attending OSU



Two Warm Springs youth, Butch Miller* (left) and Hobo Patt (right) *are going to OSU this summer for eight weeks. The pair will be studying under fisheries internships.

Two Madras High School juniors from Warm Springs will be in Corvallis for eight weeks this summer for a fisheries intern program at Oregon State University. Butch Miller, son of Satch and Orthelia Miller, and Hobo Patt, son of Evaline Patt, began their internships in fisheries June 18.

Both boys worked last summer as student trainees in the natural resources department as technicians. Their interest in the fisheries and wildlife aspect of natural resources was inspired by that experience. Both are going into the program highly recommended by tribal fisheries biologist Cris Stainbrook.

Funding for the internships is coming from two sources. The OSU Fish and Wildlife department is funding one. The other position is funded by the USDA through the OSU cooperative fisheries research unit. Both will receive a stipend plus room and board. Miller and Patt are the only two native Americans on the program.
