

Children learn fundamentals at tribal pre-school

Teacher Becky Brunoe read an entertaining story to class members during circle time.

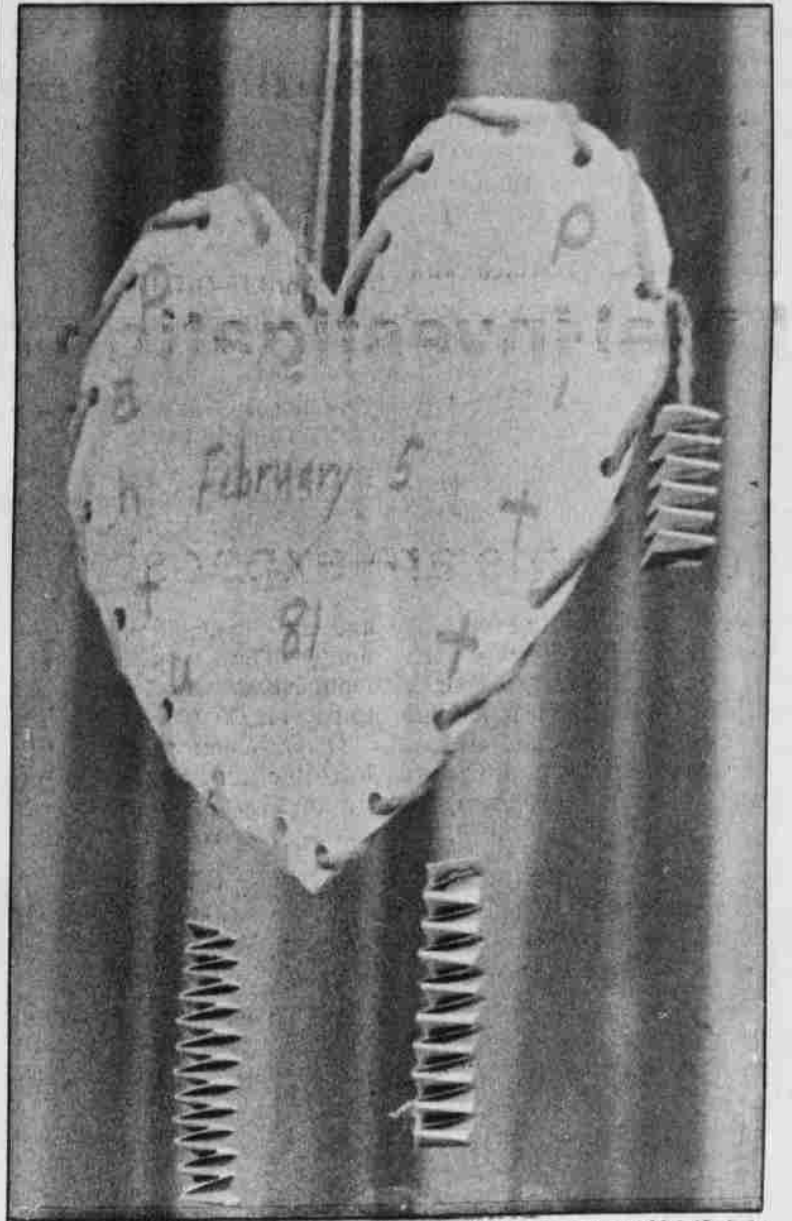

Fawn Heath cut with scissors, improving her fine motor skills.

Handwashing and toothbrushing are important hygiene habits learned at pre-school.

Timothy Kalama, left, and Francis Spino, Jr., right, have probably formed a life-long friendship at pre-school.

Decorated pink hearts showed each child's name and birthdate.

Spilyay Tymoo photos by Donna Behrend

Children assembled and disassembled puzzles in the activity center.

Marie Tom helped Andy Fuentes with writing his name and the alphabet.