JC girls' bids for softball titles fall short

Sr. girls win one, lose two

Going extra innings to win their first game against Columbia the Jefferson County girls made a strong come back after trailing 10-3 at the end of two innings.

Christal Leonard went the distance on the mound with Nellie Sam and Laura Miller alternating at the catchers position. At the end of the fourth inning the score was 12-5, in favor of Columbia and it didn't look good at all. In the fifth Jeff. Co. managed to squeeze one run in and held Columbia to no hits and no runs. The sixth inning was the charm when the Jeff. Co. started their rally to score seven runs and take the lead away from Columbia 13-12. In the top of the seventh Jefferson County went down with no hits no runs and no Columbia errors. In the bottom half Columbia came back to score one run to tie the score to go into extra innings.

In the top of the following inning Jefferson County managed to score two runs and held Columbia to no hits no runs and no Jeff. Co. errors with two runners left on to gain the victory 15-13. It was a strong come back from behind effort and team spirit that carried the girls to the win.

Game two a toughy with Hermiston

Game two, a pitcher duel as Jefferson County went up against the strong Hermiston team. Laura Miller went the distance pitching and Nellie Sam catching.

The first inning went scoreless as Jeff. Co. left three on base on no hits. Hermiston left one on base on one hit. The tip of the second Jefferson County scored one run on two hits and two Jeff. Co. errors to make the score 2-1, in favor of Hermiston. In the third both teams went scoreless but in the fourth both teams managed to score, first by Jefferson County as they got one run in to tie the score, but Hermiston came right back for one run to take the lead 3-2. The game went scoreless the rest of the way. Jefferson County threatened in the sixth with runners on second and third, one out. A Jeff. Co. batter struck out and the Hermiston catcher bobbled the ball and the runner was safe at first, but in the meantime Nellie Sam was tagged out at home on an attempted steal. The next batter grounded out to give the victory to Hermiston at 3-2. The game was termed one of the best played during the entire tourney.

JC faces Hood River

Just after losing to Hermiston, the Jefferson County girls went up against Hood River, in a game to determine who would face Hermiston for the championship.

Against Hood River, the Jefferson County girls started out very well with a 8-5 lead after three innings. Then fatigue set in on Jefferson County and Hood River scored seven runs to take the lead 12-8. During the final course of the game Hood River scored seven more runs to gain a 19-8 win over Jefferson County.

In the championship action Hermiston broke a 7-7 tie in the final inning to edge out Hood River for the championship. This put the Jefferson County girls in third place. The girls from both teams of Jefferson County deserve a pat on the back and a job well done.

Jefferson County team members, Nellie Sam, catcher; Jocelyn Moses, third base; Christal Leonard, shortstop and Laura Sahme, pitcher, breaking up from a pep huddle during the game with Hermiston. It was a close, tough game where Hermiston edged JC 3-2, to advance to the championship round.

Majors fall to Hood River in finals

The Jefferson County Major League All-Stars team made a good run for the district title but fell short when the chips were down.

Wednesday, July 9, the JC major league team went up against Redmond and completely shut them out 23-0, in a very good team effort. Winning their first game put them into championship play on Saturday.

On Saturday it was a show down between Jefferson County and Hood River for the district title and HR was first to bat. They scored five runs and five hits and a Jefferson County error. JC went to bat and the first two batters struck out and the third grounded out. Two more runs came in for Hood River in the top of the second, on one hit and two JC errors, in the bottom the JC team couldn't get a hit or runs and left two on base. In the third Hood River did not score and left two on, again JC was held to no hits no runs and one left on.

Hood River didn't score again until the fifth when they scored six runs and again the Jefferson County was unable to get anything going scoring wise. It was just one of those days when nothing would go right and the pressure of being the final game for the title didn't help matters much. Hood River came away the champs beating Jefferson County 13-0.

On the evening of July 9, race fans were filing into the Crook County Fairgrounds to attend the opening night of the 20th anniversary of pari-mutuel horse racing.

With post time at 6:45 p.m., the 10-race program included the Appaloosa Maiden, Quarter horse maiden race, Quarter horse claiming race, Thoroughbred claiming race and the Quarter horse allowance race.

It's post time once again at the Prineville turf, as fans hustled to the betting windows where all that could be heard is the key punch of the betting machines. Last minute decisions made before standing in line to place a wager on the sure fire win from scoops picked up from one of the so called "experts". Or should they use their own hunch?

It's amazing to watch the betters placing their wagers as they go through their routine on selecting their favorite horse. There were some very good pay offs this year. The races are spaced out from twenty minutes to a half an hour between each race. Even at that, the time passes so fast that one cannot really make a good pick without running out of time. The post parade is where many fans make their final decisions on their favorite horse.

The call of "The horses are loaded," from the race announcer, and everyone is on their feet. Finally, "they're running," is the call from over the sound system and the screams start right from the start to the finish. At the end of the race everyone is tense, waiting for the official results of the race. Many, many races are decided by photo shots at the finish line. Again, when the winning numbers appear on the flash board, the crowd lets out with a big, "hooray," and rush to the pay-off window. There are those who are not so lucky...
