Junior Rodeo Association perhaps?

People interested in assisting in putting a junior rodeo association together in Warm Springs are invited to attend an organizational meeting January 6 at the Senior Citizen Building at 7 p.m.

It will be decided at the meeting if the proposed Warm Springs Junior Rodeo Association will become a reality, according to Lee Tom, coordinator of the meeting.

It is anticipated that if the organization gets "the green light" that it could sponsor play days and a rodeo in the next year, according to Tom.

The association would sponsor events for children 5-18 years of age. Events at play days and rodeos would be bucking ponies, bull riding, goat tying, breakaway roping, pole bending and barrels.

All interested people are invited to attend.

SPORTS SHORTS

Here's one to think about when you're watching the 1988 Winter Olympics: In the 1984 Olympics at Sarajevo, U.S. skiers won a total of five medals, more than any other country that participated.

One of the most innovative facets of training these days is wind tunnel testing, a highly technical approach to determine aerodynamic variables of both alpine and nordic skiing. Skiers train at wind speeds of 60 miles per hour, simulating actual downhill course conditions.

Nehemiah to appear at Coliseum

The fastest hurdler in history makes his return to indoor track and field, after a four-year absence, with entry into the Pacific Northwest Bell Indoor, January 24, at Portland's Memorial Coliseum.

Rinaldo Nehemiah, still the outdoor World Recordholder in the 110 meter high hurdlers at 12.93 seconds, had captured every indoor world record, at the time he left the sport in 1982 to become a wide receiver for the San Francisco Forty-Niners. Now retired from football, and with restored track eligibility, Nehemiah is back to reclaim his title as the "World's Fastest Hurdler."

Nehemiah joins pole vaulter Billy Olsen, who set the indoor world record four times in 1986, and Jimmy Howard, the American Record Holder in the high jump, as the top headliners announced so far for the meet.

The 1987 Pacific Northwest Bell Indoor is the third stop on the prestigious Mobil Grand Prix Circuit.

NEWS OF AMERICANA

Rose Parade Float Honors American Pioneers

This New Year's Day at the Tournament of Roses Parade, a group of pioneers in business for the last one hundred years will honor the pioneers who opened the American Frontier.

A float designed especially for the parade will kick off a series of events planned by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the accounting profession in the United States. The international theme of this year's Tournament of Roses Parade is especially appropriate for the AICPA since accounting is considered the international language of business.

The AICPA float, "New World Discovery", is designed to recognize the French explorers, Marquette and Joliet as forerunners of the American pioneers. In 1673, the explorers traveled the Mississippi River to lay claim to all the land and water they might discover. The float depicts two birch bark canoes of the expedition making their way through the Louisiana Territory. The adventurers are surrounded by plants and wildlife native to North America.

The AICPA got its start only two years before the 98-year-old Tournament of Roses Parade. A century ago, seven men were called to-

It was proposed those present form an association for the advancement and protection of the interests of public accountants. When the resolutions were adopted, the American Association of Public Accountants was incorporated on August 13, 1887. One hundred years and almost a quarter of a million members later, the AICPA has evolved into the AICPA.

Today's 240,000 members, employed in public practice, business, education and government, play a vital role in the economy of the U.S.

The Tournament of Roses Parade has grown steadily throughout the years. It's seen annually by more than 125 million viewers worldwide via satellite. A spokesperson for the AICPA says the Association is proud to celebrate its Centennial at the Tournament of Roses Parade, an institution with a tradition as rich as its own.

Satch Miller rolls 300 game

Satch Miller done what every bowler dreams of and that's to roll a perfect 300 game. This happened on the night of December 17, 1986, during the Wednesday night Warm Springs mens bowling league at the Pelton Lanes in Madras.

When Satch was asked how he felt along about the ninth and tenth frame, he said, "Up until the 8th frame I was more worried about beating Vic Yahr who at that point had 8 strikes in a row." In the ninth frame he left a pin standing to end his string of strikes. Satch said that he felt pretty calm all through the game with no pressure at all, and when I delivered the last ball I knew it was good, he said.

Last spring Satch had a near miss of a perfect game where he ended up with a 298 score on missing the last shot. In that game he said he really felt the pressure all during the game, that's why I felt no pressure during this game he said, just that Yahr was with him until the 8th frame.

Satch has been bowling for the league for thirteen years starting out with a 156 average and moving up to 180 for a few years and for the last three years has had an average of 200, but now he carries a 203 average.
