Phone company offers alternatives calls, should you pay the same for your service as a person who makes lots of calls? Logically, no. And, that's why Pacific Northwest Bell gives you three choices.

All three options give you private line service and unlimited incoming calls, without any additional charge. Depending on how you use your phone, the monthly phone service plan you chose can save you money.

PNB Service Choices Premium Flat Rate Service. This is the traditional and most popular local service choice. Depending on the size of the telephone exchange in which you live, the mointhly rate ranges from $18.05 to $20.33 per month. It is the right choice for

If you make few local phone people who make a lot of local line" to the outside world.

Basic Measured Service. For $13.35 per month, you receive $3 of local calling, without any additional charge. Beyond the $3 allowance, when and where you call, and how long you talk and how often you call will determine your monthly charge. This service is designed for the customer who makes a moderate number of local calls each month.

Budget Measured Service. Priced at $11.35 per month, this is PNB's least expensive monthly service. There's no $3 allowance, and each call you make adds to the monthly charge. This is the right service for cutomers who make few local calls each month and who generally rely on their phone service as a "life-

All of these rates include a $2 CC Subscriber Line Charge. Charges for optional features, such as Convenience Calling or Touch Tone service, are excluded.

Measured calls discounted

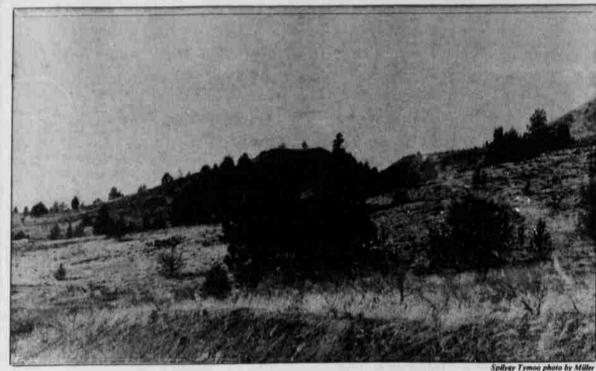

A unique advantage of measured service is that local calls you make weekdays between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m., plus on weekends and holidays are discounted 35 percent.

You also should know that about 80 percent of all local calls are within the shortest of four mileage bands: 0-8 miles. For this distance, a 10 minute call would cost 23 cents. For calls of 17 miles or morethe longest mileage band-a 10 minute call would cost 38 cents.

Which monthly service is right for

The right choice for you depends on your calling habits. One way to find out which plan suits you best is to calculate a montly total depending on when, where, how long you talk and how often you call. An easier way is to try the plan that seems to fit your needs, then switch back if you don't save money. There's no charge for switching.

If you have questions about any of thee PNB monthly service plans, call PNB's business office or its toll-free Let's Talk Bureau, at 1-800-555-5000.

"Equal pay" can ease burden

In "naturally air-conditioned" Oregon, the energy costs of being comfortable comes all at once-in

So if the thought of last winter's utility bills still results in a few shivers, it might be time to see what can be done to take some of the sting out of winter heating bills

One of the newer approaches is Pacific Power and Light Company's innovative "Equal Pay" plan which is particularly appealing to senior citizens or others living on a fixed income, said Dennis Quaid, Madras manager for Pacific Power.

"More often than not, an average customer spends half their total annual energy budget in only two months each year, December and January. Worse, this peak in heat-ing costs comes right in the middle of the holiday season when many of these customers would like to use their limited financial resources for other purposes." "To make it easier for these customers to stay warm during cold weather without financial worry, we offer enrollment in "Budget Balancer" each spring, "said Quinn. "Once a customer enrolls, the amount needed for electric energy for each of the next 11 months

To enroll or obtain information on the Pacific's Budget Balancer program, Quinn suggested either calling the Madras Office by telephone or dropping by so a customer office representative can explain how the program works and determine the exact amount of the fixed monthly charge Enrollment in Budget Balancer this year will be open between April 20 and May 19, said Quinn.

ance addressing specific needs in pre-college science and mathematic instruction were developed by NASEA. These three types are: 1. content assistance to strengthen the quality of instruction, content mastery and teaching skills of staff in selected schools; 2. Science and cultural assistance to strengthen the relationship between classroom instruction and the cultural perspectives students find outside the classroom; 3. Science networks and and systems assistance to develop mechanisms to strengthen the sharing of needs, plans, program content and successful instruction models between schools in selected geographic areas. NASEA needs your help, financial support is needed to carry out these plans. Funding for general operations support will enable the organization to function more effec-tively. This will also enable the executive director to carry out the purposes for which NASEA was conceived and toward so many individuals who have given instinc-tively of their time. NASEA is affiliated with American Indian Program of the Phelps-Stokes fund and grants for the organization or it's projects are being received by the fund for NASEA. The NASEA expects to develop sources of future self-support as, for instance, through sales of it's curriculum materials. You can make direct contributions, become an association member or assist in indentifying sources of support in your area for NASEA.

PP & L to install sign

A new electronic outdoor sign nis Quinn, manager of Pacific's capable of carrying a wide variety of messages including weather information and public service announcements will soon be installed at Pacific Power and Light Company's Madras office.

In addition to automatically displaying and temperature 24 hours day, the new sign will have the capability of displaying a wide variety of information including inforalong with non-commercial community announcements, said Den-

Madras District.

Quinn said the new sign is presently being built in Bend and should be installed in about six weeks. The sign will be the first of its type for Pacific Power.

Unlike similar signs which display only weather information or require pre-programming messages, the new Pacific power sign has the capability of being programmed mation more efficient uses of energy from a computer keyboard in the office.
