

Excess property available

Excess property has several chairs available that are originally from Kah-Nee-Ta. These chairs would be handy for visitors' area or conference room in your department. Unfortunately they will have to be issued "as is" since they will need to be refurbished. (We'd do that ourselves but our piggybank for excess repairs is pretty thin!)

We also have a couple of very pretty psychedelic, colorful file cabinets that are desperate for a new home. If you have a need for these and have a cubby hole in your office where you can hide them—please come pick one out.

We have a couple of older-style desks of the old government-issue type. They are a gray color.

Finally, we have a very unique desk for a very unique person! This desk is about four inches shorter in height than your standard desk. So if you have a special person that hates having a desk up to their chin or somebody special that you want to put the crunch on—check it out.

We also have about 16 Weller electronic-control Soldering stations for sale. They can be viewed at the Purchasing office. We will have them priced at $70.00, they are in good condition. Original price was $144.44 each.

Workshops offered by OSU

Video filming, genealogy, beef styles, sewing skills and more are just a few of the workshops to be offered in the upcoming Homemakers Festival offered by the Oregon State University Study Group members.

President of the group, Beverly Forman, reports this to be the first annual day-long workshop open to the public. With the fact that 70 percent of the women work outside of the home "the focus of holding the workshops on Saturday, May 2, 1987 is to provide an opportunity for the out of home worker."

The purpose of the workshop is to increase skills in home and family related issues. The workshops will be taught by a variety of professionals, paraprofessionals and volunteers. Some workshops will have a small charge to cover materials. A $2.00 registration fee will include a salad luncheon and general materials to be handed out. For more information call 553-1161, ext. 238.

Clown club set

Have you ever dreamed of being a part of the excitement of the "big top?" The 4-H Clown Club may be the answer to just such a desire. The club will be offered to children eight years and older (including adults). Sign-up for the club will be at the 4-H office, (trailer five located in the Park Area) and at Carol Allison's room at the Community Center.

Carol will be the leader of the 4-H Clown Club. For more information contact her at 553-1161, ext. 302 or the 4-H office at 553-1161, ext. 238.

Bend VFW to sponsor hobo stew dinner

High desert American Prisoners of war and Ponderosa Pine Post 1643 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will co-sponsor a hobo stew dinner on Friday, April 24 at the V.F.W. Hall, 33 NW Revere St., in Bend. Dinner will be served from 5:00 p.m. through 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend. The cost of the dinner is $2 per person and $1 for children under 12 years of age.

Milton Petric, ex-pow who learned to specialize the making of hobo stew while being detained in a German prison camp, will be the chef of the day. Those who plan to attend are asked to furnish their own tin can, utensils and glass or cup, coffee, punch and corn bread will be served with dinner.

All proceeds will go to the Veterans Memorial fund. For information call 389-3852 or 389-6387.

cial, and industrial power requirements of the region. "We are asking for equitable treatment," Schmitt stated, "and we expect the Corps to provide water for fish when it's available above firm power needs. This spring, we are going to need all the help we can get to avoid disastrous adult fish returns like those following the last critically low flow year in 1977."

The corps rejected an alternative recommendation from the fishery agencies and tribes. This plan would have retained the priority on firm power requirements but would have shared water above that base level equally between fishery needs and the sale of surplus power to California and other low priority markets.

In addition, the Corps' proposal permits operation of the Bonneville Dam second powerhouse, the dam where the fish bypass system is so ineffective that the Northwest Power Planning Council has required since 1985 that it be shut down during juvenile outmigration. Vice-chairman of the Authority, Tim Wapato, said, "The Corps' move clearly violates the Power Council's directives and highlights the lack of progress in correcting fish passage problems at the dam." Wapato noted that while the proposed operation at Bonneville is being justified as a one year test, no study plan has been presented to the fish agencies and tribes for their review and approval.

Applications being accepted for nursing program

The Northwest Portland Area Indian Health Board is now taking applications for their 1987 NW Indian Nursing Recruitment Program's six-week Summer Enrichment program. (SEP) The program will once again be held at Clark

College in Vancouver, Washington from August 1 to September 12, 1987. Ten slots are available. Applicants must be Indian, reside in Oregon, Idaho, or Washington, and be accepted at a college in Oregon, Idaho or Washington. Applicants will be judged on academic performance, knowledge of current Indian health issues and commitment to the improvement of Indian Health, and letters of recommendation.

The NW Indian Nursing Recruitment Program provides for transportation to and from the training site, room and board, instructional fees and supplies and a small stipend for living expenses.

The students will be involved in an intense six-week program of academics, nursing skills, and career exploration that is designed to prepare them for the rigors of nursing education. The hi-lite of the SEP are the perceptorships. Each student spends one day per week with a nurse in a hospital, clinic or private practice setting. Last year all but one student were able to view the birth of a baby!

Prospective students may write to Tina Baldomaro, Secretary NW Indian Nursing Recruitment Program 123 NW 2nd Ave., Suite 321 Portland, Oregon 97209 or call (503) 228-4185 for application packets. Completed application packets are due back no later than May 31, 1987. Selection of 10 candidates and 5 alternates will be made June 3. They will be notified June 5.

This program is funded by: Health and Human Services Nursing Special Projects Grant and a supplemental grant from the Portland Area Office-Indian Health Service.
