Wildflowers are beginning to color both forest and desert landscapes as warm weather encourages them to blossom. Orange and yellow columbine (Aquilegia Formosa) will be seen throughout the forest areas in the near future.

To the People,

To the People,

Much has been happening in Tribal Council over the last month. Legislative-wise, most everything is on hold. Swimmer has slowed the work on his initiatives to the point where they need to be reviewed by Congress and the tribes. The consultation issue is coming to the forefront. So far, it doesn't appear that the tribes agree with Swimmer's way of consulting. Swimmer decided the best way to consult was to post his consultation policy in the Federal Register, a method that doesn't suit Indian tribes. Swimmer thinks it best to define consultation. The tribes didn't say they wanted it defined. What they have said is, "If you want to do something, take the time to talk to us." We are still thinking that Swimmer wants to do things too fast. Even though consultation has been defined, it's not a manner that can be respected. Swimmer is sending recommendations to Bureau area directors who in turn send them to agency superintendents. The superintendents are then instructed to present the issues to tribal councils. The councils are given only 30 days to respond. He's not giving the Indian people time to digest the impact of those decisions and the time frame is not reasonable. Another way that Swimmer "consults" with tribes is to have articles appear in magazines and other periodicals, expecting the tribes to pick up the news that way. The tribes feel the best way to consult is to talk about the issues up front, digest the impacts and then have a reasonable time frame in which to respond. Senator Dan Inouye is exemplary of that method. He has a fine way of consulting. Much of the June 1 and 2 meeting of Affiliated Tribes of Northwest Indians will be spent planning strategy and to talk about what's happening on the federal level. We feel that there has been an excellent effort among tribes to get things slowed down. We're in the "wait-and-see" mode now. We are continuing to work on the Deschutes River bill. The Tribe is calling for more management of the river. We're also continuing our efforts on water negotiations. However, the U.S. government has slowed things down a bit, by saying they want to adjudicate all water rights. We have been getting acquainted with Jefferson County commissioners and will continue to do so. We appointed Janice Clements and Mickey Brunoe to the Central Oregon Economic Development Council. We appointed Gordon Shown, long-time businessman in central Oregon, to the Kah-Nee-Ta board of Directors. We also appointed a Warm Springs Apparel Factory board of directors. The chairman attended a luncheon with Governor Neil Goldschmidt April 15 in Salem. There has been a change in the minor's trust fund program. Parents and trust-fund recipients now have options when the child turns 14 years of age. Public meetings have been held to discuss the program changes. Another meeting is set for May 12 at the Agency Longhouse. Budget planning for 1988 is getting underway. The Council will be having a planning session May 18 during which we will discuss the financial forecast and 1988 growth. We will meet with Bureau representatives to discuss the 1989 Bureau budget.

Sincerely submitted,
Warm Springs Tribal Council

American Indian Week set for May 17-23

May 17 through 23 has been designated by Governor Neil Goldschmidt as American Indian Week in Oregon. Several activities have been scheduled to commemorate the observance.

Drumming and singing by Arlie Neskahi and Chemawa students will be included as part of the proclamation signing ceremony Monday, May 18. The ceremony will be in the Governor's ceremonial office beginning at 11 a.m.

Prosanna Williams and Verbena Greene will be among six native Americans who will be delivering the invocations at the Oregon State House and Senate during Indian Week. They will be doing the invocation Friday, May 22.

Following is the proclamation that will be signed by the Governor May 18.

Whereas: In Oregon and throughout the Pacific Northwest, the rich expression of American Indian cultures is ever-present; and

Whereas: It exists in the unique composition of Northwest art forms, in the names of many of our cities, counties, lakes and rivers, and in the enduring spirit of American Indian people; and

Whereas: While American Indians have made important and innovative contributions in education, business, and government service in our state, the historical and cultural contributions are perhaps best remembered; and

Whereas: The reverence American Indians possess for their cultural heritage inspires in non-Indians an awareness of their own roots, and provides guidance for the protection of cultural and historical resources of Oregon.

Now, therefore, I, Neil Goldschmidt, Governor of the State of Oregon, hereby proclaim the week of May 17 through 23, 1987 as American Indian Week in Oregon in recognition of those who have enriched our lives with traditional wisdom and leadership and encourage all in its observance.

KWSI features history of rock'n'roll

Radio Station KWSI FM 96.5 will feature the "History of Rock and Roll" to celebrate 25 years of music history. The Silver Anniversary Edition of this radio epic will begin Saturday, May 23 at 9 a.m. From its premiere performance in 1969, this exceptional show has been through two updates, with the Silver Anniversary Edition being the third.

The History of Rock and Roll includes contemporary superstars such as Kenny Rogers, Barry Manilow, Michael Jackson and Billy Joel. Additionally, the famous timesweep finale will feature every number-one record in chronological order from the past 25 years.

The 52 hours of History of Rock and Roll covers the beginnings of rock with Bill Haley, Chuck Berry and Fats Domino right through the 60s and 70s, with every major artist and type of music being presented.

Participants sought

A parade will be held in Oregon City Saturday, July 11, 1987, to commemorate the end of the Oregon Trail. Indian groups and individuals are encouraged to participate in the parade. Anyone interested in being in the parade should contact John Riggs, 16251 So Swan, Oregon City, Oregon 97045 or phone him at 656-3893. Deadline for entrants is June 10.

Yakimas acquitted

 missably infringed on the exercise of religion.

The jury ruled affirmatively on the religion questions except those counts that indicated the fish had been caught or sold Sundays. Extensive testimony presented during the trial maintained that Yakima customs and traditions and the Washat religion historically set Sundays as non-fishing days.

According to defense attorney Thomas Keefe, Jr., there is ample evidence there was a massive conspiracy to violate the rights of David Sohappy, Sr., and his other clients. Keefe has moved for an extradition hearing before his clients are surrendered from tribal custody.

The Yakima tribe set into motion the prosecution in August with a resolution that said the fishermen should have been tried in tribal court, not federal court, on illegal fishing charges stemming from a state and federal sting operation.

Horse to be raffled

A registered quarter horse will be raffled at the Warm Springs Lil' Buckaroo Rodeo Club's first junior rodeo May 23 and 24. The newly formed club will sponsor its first rodeo for 6-18 years of age youngsters. The rodeo will be held at the Warm Springs rodeo arena located on the Kah-Nee-Ta road north on highway 3.

Tickets for the raffle are being sold for $1 each by members of the club: Ray Florendo, Joel Florendo, Evans Spino, Jr., Justin Tom, Corbett Tom, Shirley Allen and Suyenn Smith. Monies made from the raffle will be used to defray cost for the May rodeo.

Recently two of the club's members, Justin Tom and Flint Scott won first place awards in their age divisions of bucking ponies at Pringleville's Central Oregon Peewee rodeo. Winning first place has put each of the boys leading in bucking ponies in the Central Oregon Peewee Rodeo Association.

Interested girls and boys between the ages of 6-18 years of age and their parents are invited to attend the next business meeting of the Lil' Buckaroo Rodeo club Wednesday, April 8 at the 4-H Center located in the basement of the Daycare Center at 6:30 p.m.

For more information contact Lee or Cheryl Tom at 553-1009.

Mother's Day Breakfast May 10

The Warm Springs 4-H Leaders association will be sponsoring the annual Mother's Day breakfast. This event is to be at the Warm Springs Community Center on Sunday, May 10 from 8-11 a.m.

Breakfast for children in the first grade and younger will pay $1.00 a plate; second grade and above will pay $2.00 a plate. Unlike Mother's Day breakfasts in the past, mothers will not receive a free breakfast.

Get involved in solutions

Being educated on abuse is a good thing for our community. So, whether you are a victim or an interested person who desires a healthy community, we have information for you.

Let's feel good about ourselves because we are all good people. Circumstances may have led many people down the wrong way...yet, things can be changed.

Are you willing to help us make some changes in the ways things are being dealt with now? If so, we encourage all interested persons to attend the community meetings scheduled for the second Monday of each month.

For those wishing or needing to speak privately with someone, contact Shirley Sanders at 553-1769.
