VOL. 12 NO. 18

P.O. BOX 870 WARM SPRINGS, OREGON 97761

AUGUST 28, 1987

Work started on the construction of the new housing office for the Local Housing Authority (LHA) which will be located just southwest of the Administration Building. Crews prepared the site and on August 26, crews began pouring the footings for the foundations, according to Bill Caudle, tribal construction manager. The project is scheduled for completion January 1.

Tribes set revenue sharing meeting

The Tribal Council of the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon will hold a public hearing at 9:00 a.m. on September 24, 1987 in the Administration Building in Conference room 3 for the purpose of hearing written and oral comments from the public concerning the proposed budget for 1987 for the use of Revenue Sharing Funds as contained in the proposed summarized below. Immediately following the hearing a budget will be enacted via Tribal Council Resolution.

General Revenue Sharing is a program of General Fiscal support from the Federal Government to state and local governments with only limited Federal requirements on how the money should be spent. Decisions on the use of funds are made at the local level by the government and people closest to local problems. The revenue sharing regulations require a hearing on the proposed use of these funds in relation to the overall budget before the budget is adopted each year.

All interested citizens, groups, senior citizens and organizations representing the interest of senior citizens are encouraged to attend and to submit comments concerning Revenue Sharing Funds available.

Mill guards face threats, many other problems

Luzon Security, of Bend, was hired by Warm Springs Forest Products Industries nearly six months ago to help curtail alcohol and drug problems among employees, reduce theft and vandalism and to ensure safety. However, since their first day on the job March 2, problems faced by the guards have become increasingly more serious. The guards cited traffic-related problems as the number-one concern on mill property. In five months' the guards reported over 800 traffic-related incidents, most of the which were speeding and parking violations. Most violators have been seen driving in excess of 30 miles an hour on company property. The posted speed is 20.

Of a more serious nature are the verbal and physical assaults on the security guards and their vehicle. Two windshields have had to be

Warm Springs youth found guilty

A 14-year-old Warm Springs youth was sentenced to five years in the custody of the U.S. Attorney's office July 29 when he was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon and violation of the Federal Juvenile Act by District Court Judge Helen J. Frye, according to BIA Special Agent Rob Moran.

The charges stem from a March 23 incident at which time the youth entered the Tenino apartment of Jackie Gabriel, 24, and assaulted her with a knife. Gabriel sustained a knife puncture wound in the throat. Following the incident she was transported to Mt. View Hospital where she received treatment and was hospitalized.

The incident was investigated by Warm Springs police and investigators with their findings being submitted to the U.S. Attorney's office in Portland.

The youth was apprehended several days after the incident by police and turned over to the custody of the U.S. Marshalls in Portland where he has remained before and after the trial.

At this time it has not been determined where the youth will serve his five year sentence, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Bill Youngman.

MOIHS board considering museum site

Since MOIHS was founded in 1974, several states have been considered for the new tribal museum. One site, for which an architectural concept was prepared, is near Kah-Nee-Ta Lodge. Although that site has many favorable attributes, it fails to meet the basic criteria for a community oriented, publicly accessible facility.

After much deliberation, the Board of Directors of the Middle Oregon

Indian Historical Society, in consultation with the Tribal Council, have concluded that an ideal museum site would meet the following criteria:

1. Readily accessible to the population center of the Warm Springs Reservation, preferably within two miles of the Agency.
2. Readily accessible to the traveling public, preferably visible from Hwy. #26.
3. Within reasonable distance of governmental offices and schools to facilitate use of the archives and research materials and to accommodate visitors to those offices.

4. A site with multiple ecological zones and a natural stream for outdoor interpretation.
5. A landbase sufficient in size to accommodate present and future museum buildings, parking areas and outdoor exhibits.

community Center where he entered the building. He then took another maintenance worker, Janice Gunshaws as a hostage. He robbed Gunshaws of money.

Police and investigators responded to the Community Center, and, as they arrived, Tappo fled on foot. He was later apprehended at a residence in West Hills when he attempted to flee through a window.

Tappo will be sentenced in U.S. Federal District Court in Portland September 14 by Judge James A. Redden.

According to the Jefferson County District Attorney's office, Tappo still faces sentencing in Circuit Court on one charge of burglary in a March 28 incident. He plead guilty to the burglary of Hatfield's department store, and in plea bargaining, a theft-one charge was dropped.

Judge John Copenhaver had ordered a pre-sentence investigation with the sentencing to take place on September 28.

Tappo remains in the custody of the U.S. Marshalls in Portland.

Drug awareness workshop scheduled

The "Here's Looking At You, 2000" curriculum is designed to prevent children from using alcohol and other drugs, and is being taught to students from kindergarten through twelfth grades in schools all around the country. It gives students basic information about drugs, teaches them social skills to reduce the risks of drug abuse, and helps bond them to school and family. The curriculum was developed by the same people who wrote "Here's Looking At You, Two" and incorporates state-of-the-art teaching methodologies and the latest information on drugs and drug abuse. The workshop, scheduled for August 31, September 1 and one additional day is available to all teachers, administrators, staff and parents.

As a result of the training, participants will be able to demonstrate basic knowledge about drugs and drug abuse, identify and assist students living in chemically dependent families, identify their own attitudes toward drug use and drug abuse, demonstrate their knowledge of the objectives and materials of the drug education curriculum, "Here's Looking At You, 2000", develop and practice social skills and initiate the curriculum in the classroom.

The workshop makes use of large and small group discussions, videos, hands-on exploration of curriculum materials designed for the participant's grade level, a student panel, guest speakers, role plays, videos, videotaping, and slides, transparencies, handouts, and posters. Copies of the "Here's Looking At You, 2000" guides will be given to each participant. The guides contain lesson plans and a resource supplement. Teaching kits containing videos, books, puppets, educational games, posters, etc., are available through the media center in each school.

Hot shot crew on stand by

During the evening hours of August 18, a call was answered by the Fire and Safety and the Hot Shot Fire Crew of Warm Springs for a fire along the Jackson Trail road. The fire burned about two and half acres grass land and was believed to have been man caused, however the fire is still under investigation.

Fire danger remains in high conditions with the temperatures up in the 80's and 90's, and it is real dry all over. The fire dispatcher reports that the largest fire to-date is the one that was on Eagle Butte a while back. We have been pretty lucky lately having no major forest fires. All the fires have been in open range grass lands and have been held down to just a few acres.

On August 23, the Hot Shot crew was alerted for stand-by as fires raged out of control in the Ochoco National Forest and also in eastern Oregon, Nevada and northern California. The crew reported to Ochoco National Forest headquarters in Prineville, waiting further instructions, but there have been no reports on if the crew was sent to either of the fires in the area. The rest of the crew were on stand-by here for duty on the reservation along with the Helicopter crew.

At the fire along the Jackson Trail road late one night on August 18, men making a fire trail around the blaze to contain the fire which burned about two acres of grassland.
