Tribal Member Veterans and Families of Vets:

Vital Statistics is interested in completing our Veteran's list. A few of the Veterans listed have filed their papers with us, some were mentioned as possibilities. If we have forgotten someone—it was not intentional. Please check over the names and contact Vital Statistics with names of those we may have omitted. We have lists posted at Macy's, Sr. Citizens Center, The Clinic, and Administration Building. Our phone number is 553-1161, exts. 252 or 253. Also, if you happen to have your Discharge papers, please bring them into our office so we can put them in your file.

Post #4217 receives commendation

The Warm Springs chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Elliott Palmer Post #4217, was recently commended for attaining 100 percent for the 1987-88 membership year.

The organization with 46 active members have maintained membership and all records are in order. Thirty-five of the members are life members.

The letter received from national Commander-In Chief Earl L. Stock, Jr. reads:

Claude H. Smith, Sr. Commander Elliott Palmer Post #4217 Warm Springs, Oregon

"I want to extend my personal congratulations and best wishes to you and to the members of your Post for being one of the first Posts to attain 100 percent for the 1987-88 membership year.

"Our organization was founded in 1899 when 13 Spanish-American War veterans gathered in the rear of a tailor shop in Columbus, Ohio, and little did they dream that what they started in their dedication to assist those who fought for our country would turn into the over two-million member organization that it is today.

"Just as our founding fathers recognized the need for an organization that would work for the good of former servicemen, it is reassuring to note that today's veterans are becoming increasingly aware of the need for the continued growth of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, an organization that has earned the right to be called the veterans' advocate.

"As VFW Post #4217 marks its 100 percent in membership, let us remember Harold J. Culpus and rededicate ourselves to do whatever it takes to continue to grow and expand as we all join together in preserving a proud, free and secure America."

Yours in comradeship, Earl L. Stock, Jr. Commander-In-Chief

Elliott Palmer Post #4217, organized in 1952, holds a gold charter, a certification stating that the post can never be removed from Warm Springs.

Members are active in a variety of projects including a bowling league and a little league team. The VFW organization will provide a headstone for veterans and its members often provide help to families in distress.

Post commander Claude Smith, Sr. wants to encourage veterans to join the organization. He says, "We would like to see the young guys take over and run the post."

Meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month beginning at 7:00 p.m. at the senior citizens building. District meetings are held three times each year, the next scheduled for January 24 at Redmond, Oregon. The state conference will be held June 22 in Bend, Oregon.

Veteran's dinner and parade planned

A VFW Auxiliary of the Elliott Palmer Post #4217 will hold a dinner on Veteran's Day, November 11, 1987 at the Agency Longhouse to honor all veterans. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m.

A parade will be held at 11 a.m. on that same day. The parade will begin at the Warm Springs Presbyterian Church. To be honored during the the last living Gold Star mother of World War II, Annie Yahtin of Simnasho. Special honor will also be given to Grant Waheneka, who served for many years in the Air Force.

The parade will progress to the old Administration Building on Warm Springs Street where it will pause to give a seven gun salute to all deceased vets, a bell will be rung once for each living and deceased veteran. A special lineup of horse carrying empty saddles will be lead through the parade.

Following the parade special entertainment, including a viewing of film from the "From Oregon with Love" segment, will be provided by a group of Japanese at the Longhouse before the dinner.

All families, friends and community members are invited to take part in the day's activities.

Families of deceased veterans who would like to lead an empty-saddled horse are asked to contact Neda Wesley after 5 p.m. at 553-1626. Families are asked to provide a blanket to place over the saddle. The blankets will be given away and can be lettered, if so desired.

Elk season November 1-30

The Reservation Elk season opened November 1 and will run through November 30. The Natural Resources office will be issuing tags to tribal members from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Limit is one antlered elk (bull) per family.

We would like all deer tags issued for August, September and October to be returned to our office for monthly reports. Also, any tags issued for the Ceded Area (Cascades and first season Rocky Mtn.) we would like the results turned into our office.

Second Rocky Mountain season is November 7-15, and we will be opened until 7:00 p.m. Friday, November 7, to issue tags.

Body recovered

The body of a Warm Springs man, Floyd "Sluggo" Tewe, 46, was discovered in a body net on the Deschutes River about one-and-one-half miles downstream from where he had been reported to have disappeared. Tewe had been fishing from a scaffold October 7 in the Sherars Bridge area.

Tewe was reported missing and presumed drowned by two fishing companions, Rudy Paul and Harold Walsey, also of Warm Springs. The trio went to the Sherars Bridge area on the evening of October 7, to fish. According to Bureau of Indian Affairs Special Agency officer Rob Moran, Paul fished on a scaffold a short distance downstream from Tewe. Walsey went to the car to repair his net and fell asleep. The next morning when Paul went to check on Tewe, there was no sign of Tewe. Paul stated he did find Tewe's net, a gunny sack with a steelhead and some other personal items of Tewe's on the scaffold. A search of surrounding towns, from The Dalles to Warm Springs, failed to turn up any information on Tewe.

On October 8 it was determined that he was missing and it was possible that he had fallen in the river while fishing. A search was conducted by the Warm Springs police, Fire and Safety, Utilities, Natural Resources, numerous volunteers and the Warm Springs Search and Rescue volunteer group.

A net was strung across the river about a mile-and-a-half from where Tewe was believed to have fallen in. Another net was strung further downstream. A team of searchers set up a base camp and remained at the river continuing the search until on October 22, Tewe's body was recovered from the first net.

The Wasco County medical examiner determined that Tewe had drowned.

Duo arrested, arraigned on hunting charges

Two tribal members, getting a jump on the reservation elk season, were arrested last week and charged with killing elk out of season. Their arraignment was scheduled for Wednesday, November 4. Results of the arraignment were not available at press time. If found guilty, the charges could net both men up to $500, six months in jail, or both.

According to BIA Agency Special Officer Rob Moran, George Aguilar, Jr., age 24, and Jay Switzer, age 30, were arrested October 30 following an investigation by a tribal fish and game officer.

The investigation began after a photograph of an elk head and neck, left on Quail Trail near the Greeley Heights housing area, appeared in the October 23 edition of Spilyay Tymoo. The ongoing investigation lead to the issuance of a search warrant that was served on Aguilar at his residence. During the search, the antlers of three elk, a five-point and two six-points, were found as were elk body parts.

It was determined during the search that another person was involved in the incidents.

Aguilar allegedly killed a six-point elk on the south end of the reservation two weeks prior to the season opening November 1. Switzer allegedly killed a five-point and a six-point elk in the Jefferson Creek and Peter's Pasture areas sometime during the summer.

Tribal elk hunting regulations allow the harvesting of one bull elk per family per year.

been involved in the documentation project since its beginning.

The documentation may have important legal use, explains Rowe. "We are guaranteed by our treaty that our food areas would be available to us." Public land agencies such as the Bureau of Land Management have exchanged or sold much of the public land that the Indian people once utilized. By identifying traditional use areas, negotiations with farmers and ranchers for access to unused private lands may be possible. Much of this land still grows traditional foods.

Areas on the Warm Springs reservation where traditional foods are available is quickly diminishing due to competitive land uses. Rowe points out, "Our land seems to be shrinking because of other uses." The Culture and Heritage department is documenting all traditional food areas both on- and off-reservation.

For land management purposes the collected information may be used to protect many land areas that public agencies wish to sell or exchange. Too many times there is no reason for BLM to hold on to land. But, "If it is important to the Tribe culturally, they will hold on to it," says Mattson.

During the last week, a video crew was in Warm Springs taping a documentary film on the Warm Springs community. The finished video, titled "Warm Springs Today", will be used by Middle Oregon Indian Historical Society for public relations, according to MOIHS director, Duane King.
