Ford finishes race in 50 minutes

Although the weather turned for the worse on Saturday with a little rain during Pi-Ume-Sha, it was ideal for the annual memorial endurance race. The rain cooled things down which was in favor of the horses.

The fourteen mile or so race drew a good field that covered the course in record setting time. The winner this year was Jerry Ford of Wellpinit, Washington, who made the run in 50 minutes cutting a minute off of the time from last year. This was Jerry's third endurance race for the year and he has been doing very well for himself over in Washington. He received the first place prize money, a satin jacket, a blanket and a very pretty silver and gold belt buckle. He also won a colt which was put up by the Viola Kalama family. Chief Smith came in a close second, he was also awarded a satin jacket, sweat shirt and a silver and gold belt buckle. Ricky Graybael was third and received a jacket and other prizes. Joyce Suppah placed fourth and she was the only female to brave the rugged course. Whitney Miller was fifth, Toba Scott sixth, Buck Smith 7th and Terry Squiemphen 8th.

Flint Scott, son of Gordon and Brenda Scott won the junior division with Ryan Spino second and Evans Spino, Jr., third, Justin Tom fourth, Thurman Squiemphen fifth, Israel Scott sixth, Charley Spino seventh and Marty Spino eighth.

Both race courses are challenging which make it more interesting for the participants. Next year Teeny predicts a better race as it is growing each year with more enthusiasm from all participants as well as the fans.
