six-part questionnaire that asks about response time, professionalism, sincerity and quality of service on the officer's part. The questionnaire also asks for constructive criticism that will "assist in upgrading services" and if a "home visit with an officer" is wanted.

In addition to the questionnaire, police officers are tape recording their first contact with clients. The recordings will be used only as an internal inspection device and a way to evaluate a police officer's methodology and behavior. The tapes will not be used as evidence in court. If improper behavior is detected, the officer will receive individualized training, either in-house or through an outside agency and a possible reprimand.

At some point during that initial contact with a client, the person will be informed that they are being recorded. If the client objects the taping will be discontinued.

"We're striving to improve the police department's image," said police chief Ray Calica. These steps will also improve public relations in the community and will be a way for management to "criticize or correct the deficiencies among officers," added Calica.

The long-range goal is basic improvement of services offered by the police department. However, feedback is important. Once the completed questionnaires are evaluated, results will be reported in the Spilyay.

Back-to-school seminar set

A back-to-school learning seminar is to be held at the Warm Springs Community Center for children eight years and older. It will be from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. August 29 to September 2.

Penningtons still fixing appliances

The Warm Springs Service Center, co-owned by Jim and Iva Pennington has re-opened at 2262 Quail Trail, according to Pennington.

He stated he has two assistants he is training in the repair of major appliances (example-dryers, washers, ranges, ect.). The business is located at the Pennington home where it was before. He said the address was changed when improvements were made on roads in the area but it is in the same place. For information call 553-1426.

High school students attend annual Business Week at WSC

by Saphromia Coochise

August 7-13, student participants from all over the state of Oregon joined the Oregon Business Week (OBW) which was held on the campus of Western State College in Monmouth, Oregon. Two students from Madras Senior High School were chosen, Saphromia Coochise and Donald Moore to attend.

The program was sponsored by Associated Oregon Industries Foundation, Western Oregon College, Oregon State Department of Education, Oregon Chamber of Commerce and generous contributions from individual and corporate sponsors throughout the state of Oregon.

OBW is a program designed to help participants better understand the American economic system and the role of business in that system. It is set up to provide an opportunity for business executives to improve participants understanding of how the private enterprise system functions.

Students were divided into individual groups. Each group was a company and each company was given a different letter which became the name of their company. They were then assigned to a company adviser (CA). The CA's were employees of companies from businesses all over the state. Each then divided into three groups and chose their own name and sold tops and jeans. The company was responsible for all decisions, what their company name would be and what quality type their product would be. They were also responsible for making a profit and keeping enough supplies in stock.

A wide variety of guest speakers were invited to speak with the students to share their experiences and answer questions the students might want to know about to improve their business. They came from different companies all over the state to tell the students of their experiences in the business world. Each company was also given the opportunity to visit a business industry in Salem. To see what kind of things go on inside a major business firm. What the business has to do according to what type of business it is. Another activity held during the week was a volleyball tournament which was played by all companies during recreation hours. The bookstore, the malt shop, the cafe, the T.V. room were all open for recreational use. Tennis courts, softball fields, and outdoor basketball courts were available for use along with pool tables and video games. At 9 p.m. every night movies were played in the College Center. And dances were held throughout the week for entertainment.

OBW then came to an end with a banquet and graduation address. Students then parted for home leaving addresses with new friends from all over Oregon.

Annual Berry feast a success, winners noted

Each August the annual Huckleberry Feast on the Warm Springs reservation is held at the HeHe Longhouse which is located on the Warm Springs River 19 miles north of Warm Springs. In recent years it appears that more people are returning the tradition of taking part in the annual feast. This year there were more camps set up in the area. People came to take part in the giving of thanks for berries and to join in the celebration. Berries are gathered by women who have be selected to harvest the first berries of the season for the feast. After the feast the berry fields are open for all to pick.

At HeHe during the week-end of August 5, 6 and 7, participants took part in the annual Huckleberry Powwow, cowdeo and feast. The feast is the highlight of this celebration, it was held on Sunday, August 7. The powwow was held for three days, August 5, 6 and 7. The cowdeo is held to give youngsters a chance to prove their skills as cow-boys and for some it is a time to try their hand at cowboy events for the first time. Added to this year's cowdeo were two new events, the ladies mud wrestling (won by Cheryl Tom) and the cow pie throwing contest (won by Rick Minthorn). Both events proved to be crowd pleasers.

Warm Springs man sentenced and fined on drug charges

A Warm Springs man, Bob Eagleheart, 40, 2528 Looksh Street, was found guilty of two charges in Warm Springs Tribal Court on August 17, 1988, according to Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Agency special officer, Rob Moran. Moran stated that BIA and tribal investigators and Warm Springs police officers executed a search warrant for narcotics on January 20, 1988 at Eagleheart's residence in Greeley Heights. Officers were looking for a good sized amount of narcotics and narcotic paraphernalia relating to cocaine use and sale. Moran said cocaine and paraphernalia was seized during the search. A criminal complaint was filed in Tribal Court and a warrant for Eagleheart's arrest was issued. The charges were for possession of narcotics and dangerous drugs and the sale of narcotic drugs/cocaine.

Eagleheart was arraigned in Tribal Court on January 27, 1988 at which time the charges were read and he entered a plea of not guilty.

The court trial was held August 17, 1988 and he was found guilty of both charges, one on possession of cocaine and one on possessing cocaine for sale.

He was sentenced on August 19, 1988 for one count of possession, he received a $500 fine and was ordered to serve 180 days with 180 days being suspended; on the second count of possession of cocaine he was fined $500 and sentenced to serve 180 days with credit for having served 35 days. He was ordered to enter a drug abuse counseling program and will be placed on one year's supervised probation following his release.

He is presently incarcerated at the Warm Springs Justice Center, according to Moran.

Three visitors from Russia met with tribal elders this week during a short stop on the reservation.

Russians make brief visit to reservation

Winging their way half way around the world and making a brief stop in Warm Springs earlier this week were three visitors from Russia. The trio, members of a group totalling 20, was in the United States to attend the Women's Peace Conference in Dallas, Texas. All are members of the Russian Committee for Peace and participants in a project titled "Soviets Meet Middle America." The total group was separated into groups of four and each group hopped across the United States, visiting various communities. Warm Springs was just one of five stops for this particular group.

The Russian actress, eye surgeon and grower of sable and ermine skins toured the hydro electric project, Warm Springs National Fish Hachery, Kah-Nee-Ta and viewed the museum artifacts. Washut services were held at the Senior Citizens Center in their honor.

The three-week trip for the visitors began August 7 and took them to New York City, Dallas, Bend, and Juneau, Alaska. The entire entourage will converge on the Nation's capitol before they return home next week.

There's still time to register your child for ECE

It's Head Start registration time and time to get your child ready for the Head Start program. If your child will be three or four years old on or before September 1, 1988, he or she is eligible to enroll in one of our two programs, Head Start of Tribal Preschool.

Head Start is located at the Community Center. There are two classes of three-year olds: a Monday-Wednesday-Friday class and a Tuesday-Thursday class. There are two, four-year old daily classes. Our Head Start program hours for the children are 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. with breakfast and lunch being served daily.

Tribal Preschool is located at the Presbyterian Church. The program is available for tribal member children, ages three and four. Hours for Tribal Preschool children are 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon, with a snack only being served daily.

Please come by the Head Start office today to pick up your child's registration packet. Required information you will need to complete in the registration packet includes proof of income—a paycheck stub from the 10th of the month (no draw check stubs), W-2 form, Social Security—a copy of your check or written proof of the amount you receive from the Social Security Administration, Public Assistance (Welfare, Food Stamps, etc.), a copy of your statement of the amount you receive; social security numbers of all adults, 21 years of age or older living in the same household and two emergency contacts.

A physical examination and immunization are required and an appointment is needed at the IHS clinic if this is your child's first year in the Head Start or Tribal Preschool programs. Physical exam and immunization forms may be picked up at the Head Start office before your child's visit to the clinic.

Space is limited and we will accept completed registration packets on a "first come, first serve" basis. It is very important to come to the Head Start Office to begin registering your child(ren).

For further information, please contact Nancy Kirk, 553-1161, ext. 241 or 242, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. We encourage you to register your child with our programs—it's a new world of learning for your child and yourself.
