For further information contact Marie Calica at Madras High School or the Jefferson County Health Department.

Tribal Education Committee members present Pauline Shelk (Center) with plaque of appreciation for her contribution to Warm Springs Elementary's Artist in Residence program. Shelk was inspired to support Indian artistry in the school after she met a Warm Springs woman on a bus 30 years ago who explained the great need to pass on the Indian heritage to children.

Task Force: Helping people help themselves

by Judy Charley

On the evening of February 15, 1989, the Strategic Health Plan Task Force convened for its initial community meeting. This community development project has been made possible through the joint efforts and support provided by community members, tribal leadership and local and regional Indian Health Service officials. Technical assistance is being provided by the Health Promotion and Disease Prevention Resource Center at Stanford University. All are working together as partners and, with key resources, can accomplish the Tribe's goals: become the healthiest Indian community by the year 2000 through a realistic and achievable mission.

The Warm Springs Tribal Council passed resolution #7719 November 22, 1988, to support the tribal management, health planners and other technical efforts supporting health promotion and disease prevention activities in the community. In the 1980s and in previous decades, major health and social problems affecting tribal membership have been directly related to the lifestyles and the environment individuals have created for themselves.

These have resulted in concentrating manpower and resources towards treating avoidable and preventable and chronic diseases such as heart disease, cancer, strokes, diabetes, alcohol and substance abuse, injuries, baby bottle mouth syndrome, suicide and the neglect and abuse (physical and sexual) of children. All of these conditions do not make for a very pretty picture, yet they threaten tribal membership.

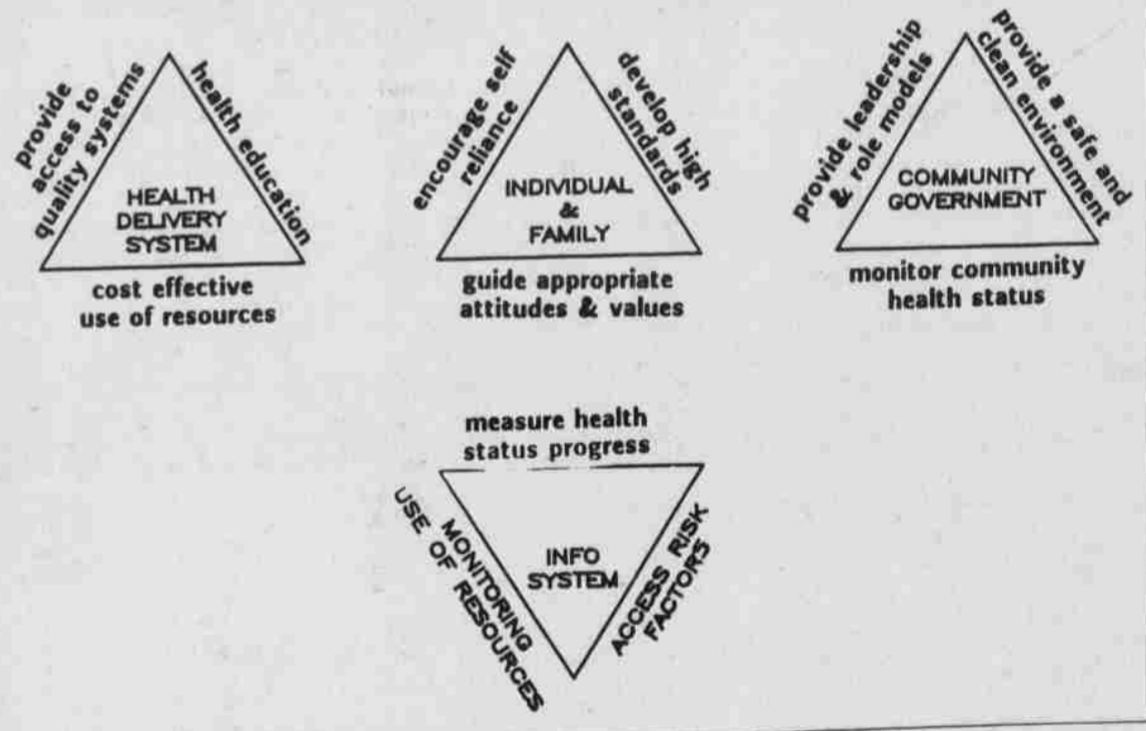

In order to better manage these problems, the community needs a stronger commitment on the part of individuals and families to become more responsible for their own health and well-being. This means all members will have to start making better lifestyle choices and better informed decisions; what to eat, whether to smoke, use alcohol, use and/or abuse drugs, exercise regularly, use seat belts and baby car seats, etc. These habits, put together, make up a person's lifestyle. Some of these help a person stay healthy thus increasing their chances to live a full and long life. Others increase a person's chances of becoming sick, injured and decreasing their life.

Ken Smith, tribal chief executive officer and secretary/treasurer, stated at the meeting, "We have got to change our attitude, what we now perceive and accept as normal behavior in order for the Warm Springs Indian reservation to become a healthier place to live."

In essence, the job of the Task Force is to help the community recognize and own their health and social problems. More importantly, help solve them.

Howlak Tichum Agnes Sumpter (Tsumpti) Nathan

Agnes Sumpter (Tsumpti) Nathan, age 68, died February 26, 1989 at Central Oregon Health Care Center in Bend after an extended illness. Agnes was born November 1, 1920 to Fred and Mary (Henning) Sumpter.

Agnes was a certified welder and worked on the Liberty ships at the Portland shipyards during World War II.

As a member of the Health and Welfare Committee, she was involved in the planning of tribal health and social programs. She was among the first CHR's appointed by the Tribe and worked until her retirement in 1980.

Beadworking full costumes for relatives occupied much of her time. Ranching and farming were among her past occupations as well as fishing at Sherar's Bridge. She was a member of the North American Indian Women's Association and the Presbyterian Church.

Preceding her in death were her father, who died in 1978; her mother, who died in 1963; sisters Sally Sumpter, who died in 1934; June Sumpter, who died in 1939; and Annie David, who died in 1948. Brothers Moses Sumpter, who died in 1907 and Welches Sumpter, who died in 1910 also preceded her in death.

Agnes is survived by a sister Inez Calica and numerous neices and nephews, including Phillip David, and Ray, Larry and Jody Calica.

Dressing ceremonies were conducted at the Simnasho Longhouse Tuesday, February 28 by Nettie Shawaway and Velma Frank. Overnight Seven-Drum ceremonies were conducted by Pierson Mitchell. Burial was at the Simnasho Cemetery March 1, 1989.

Kenneth Lavene Wheeler

Kenneth Lavene Wheeler, 52, died March 2, 1989 at Orchards Villa Nursing Center in Lewiston, Idaho. He was the brother of Gwen Leonard, and the father of Francelia and Michelle Wheeler, all of Warm Springs.

He was born September 17, 1936 in Stites, Idaho to Phillip and Florence Gould Shippentower Wheeler, Sr.

He worked for a time at the Madras Lumber mill. He enjoyed traveling to northwest Indian celebrations and was well known for his ability at playing cards and pool.

He met and married Agnes Greene in Warm Springs and was later divorced. They had four daughters and one son.

Survivors include his grandmother, Ella Kash Kash, four daughters, Lori Wheeler, Kim Wheeler Jones, Francelia Wheeler and Michelle Wheeler and his son, Desmond Wheeler. Two other daughters, Sandra Wheeler Arquette and Laura lukes also survive. Also surviving are numerous grandchildren and seven brothers and five sisters, including Gwen Leonard.

Dressing ceremonies were held in Lewiston March 5 and were followed by Seven-Drum services held in Lapwai. Burial was March 6 at the Nez Perce Tribal Cemetery in Lapwai.
