

Bonus for parents

Receive the biggest bonus life has to offer by attending a prevention program for parents:

Preparing for the drug-free years

The goal of this program is to teach parents skills to reduce the risk that their children will abuse alcohol or other drugs. This program consists of five two-hour workshops held one evening each week for five consecutive weeks. Topics include:

- How to prevent drug abuse in your family (April 4)
- How to develop a family position on drugs (April 11)
- How to say "No" to drugs (April 18)
- How to express and control your anger (April 25)
- How to strengthen family bonds (May 2)

Workshop is limited to 30 families. Contact Anita Davis or William Moses at the Community Counseling Center for more information, 553-1161, Ext. 205.

County expands fair entries, fair to run from July 25 to 30

The Jefferson County fair board wants residents of Crook and Deschutes counties to enter exhibits in this year's fair.

For the first time in the history of the fair, the board is inviting exhibits from the other two counties in central Oregon.

The board hopes for more competition with participation from people in the expanded area, and, with the addition of a new building this year, there now is exhibit space to accommodate more entries.

In other fair-related news, the board earlier this year moved fair time from August to July so that people could participate in the fair without interfering in ranch and farm activities. This year's fair will run from July 25 through July 30.

Committee meeting set

The tribal Land Use Planning committee will hold a public hearing in the committee room in the tribal administration building Thursday, May 4 at 4 p.m. to discuss an application for a conditional use permit to allow a public use in a recreation zone. The area in consideration is located between Shitike Creek and Highway 26 (the alfalfa field on the south side of the highway known as "Ed's field"). The purpose of the permit is to allow the construction of the tribal museum. Any questions can be directed to the BIA realty office at 553-1121, ext. 419.

L L sign-up continues

Little league baseball sign-up is will be accepted until Friday, April 21. The tryouts will be Monday, April 24 and the draft will be announced Thursday, April 27. For more information contact the Community Center at 553-1161, ext. 243, 244 or 302.

A clinic for Little League coaches is scheduled for 10:00 a.m. April 29 at the Warm Springs Community Center.

The Little League Association is scheduled to meet at 7:00 p.m. May 4 at the Warm Springs Community Center.

JTPA homes available

Four Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) homes, to be located in the Greeley Heights Phase III subdivision, will go under construction soon.

If you are interested in purchasing one of these homes, applications are available from the Health and Welfare Committee Secretary located in the Tribal Council office. All information on the application must be completed. When done with the application, applicants are to return the form to the secretary. Health and Welfare committee members and the credit manager will review all applications. Applicants will be notified when a final selection has been made.

Please note: Homes are unfurnished and have no appliances such as stoves, refrigerators, washers or dryers.

Clarification

The last issue of Spilyay carried a brief photo description explaining an award received by Aurolyn Stwyer. We wish to clear up any misunderstandings caused by that outline.

Aurolyn met several criteria to qualify for the award. Not only did she overcome personal adverse conditions, she improved herself as a result of her learning experiences. She has also received other awards and honors for educational achievement and has demonstrated leadership skills. While being supportive of others who are furthering their education, Aurolyn has maintained family responsibilities by being a single parent of her seven-year-old son.

Aurolyn is now attending business-related classes at Marylhurst College every other weekend and carries a 3.98 grade point average. She also works full time in the tribal finance department as an internal auditor.

Friday's grand entry will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday's sessions will begin at 12 noon and 7 p.m. Traditional Sunday services will be held Sunday as will be a salmon feast beginning at noon.

Any questions can be directed to Myrna Bobb at the NASU office at 686-3723.

The Madras High School graduating class of 1969 will hold its 20th class reunion August 4 and 5. Anyone interested in working on the reunion plans is encouraged to attend meetings that are announced in the community events column in the Madras Pioneer. Addresses of classmates are also needed. Names of those people whose whereabouts are unknown will appear in future issues of Spilyay and the Madras Pioneer.

Indians receive training

by Tina Aguilar

Lavina Thomas became the first tribal member fully certified corrections officer on January 25, 1989. According to Lieutenant Bruce Fones, supervisor of the corrections/communications officers, Thomas joins three others, including himself in being fully certified corrections officers. She became employed November 25, 1987, then on December 14, 1987, she became permanent full time. She attended the Police Academy at Monmouth, Oregon from April 4, to May 6, 1988, completing a 200 hour training in five weeks. Returning from the Academy, there is still more training to be completed including the completion of a Field Training Manual before becoming fully certified. This takes nine to 12 months to be completed on the job.

Three other correction officers have graduated from the Academy March 10, 1989 and are back on the job. They are tribal member Ilone Thomas, married into the tribe, Dixon Polk and Carla Bagley. Another tribal member, Maria Minthorn will be attending in May along with Romaine Miller.

Fones is very pleased at the number of Indians employed under his direction. The breakdown is as follows: Seven tribal members, three married into the tribe, one other Indian and four non-Indians with one vacancy in the communications area.

The communications office has four full time employees; Ruth Womack, a non-Indian; and two tribal members, Annette Polk and Crystal Greene. The communications division is shorthanded as there is one position vacant.

The dispatcher positions are vital to the Police department. This being the control center of everything, they answer the 911-PSAP (Public Safety Answering Point) line, other incoming lines, radios, dispatch, do license checks and are the first person a client comes in contact with when they enter the police department. Dispatchers are required to receive training from the LEDS (Law Enforcement Data Systems) workbook consisting of 60 percent hands-on training.

Tribal member, Annette Polk, works as a dispatcher in police department communications.

Carla Bagley is one of three corrections officers to graduate from the BPST Academy in Monmouth.
