Infant's diet affects health

Because an infant grows everyday, their diet has a major influence on their health and growth. The nutritional needs of a young baby are supplied best by mother's milk. However, a nursing mother must remember that alcohol, caffeine, nicotine and other drugs will enter her milk and will affect her baby. As with a pregnancy, a nursing mother should not use drugs.

Saturday Academy offers summer classes

Central Oregon Community College has developed a program for students in grades six through 12 called the Central Oregon Saturday Academy.

The program involves professionals throughout central Oregon who teach classes involving computers, engineering, mathematics, liberal and applied arts, plus many other topics. Classes are held after school, in the evenings and on Saturdays. They will be held on-site in the place of business, or in the professional institution hosting the class. They are designed to give students instruction in specific topics or areas of interest that are not offered in most junior high and secondary schools. Classes are small, running anywhere from four to 12 students.

Saturday Academy is a non-profit program which is funded by private grants, contributions and class tuition which is $35. No student will be denied admission to Saturday Academy classes because of financial need. Acceptance will be given on first come, first served basis and students will be chosen by their desire, completion of prerequisites and experience.

Applications are available at junior high and high school counseling offices throughout central Oregon or by calling the Saturday Academy office at COCC, 382-6112, ext. 230.
