White Buffaloes topple Forest Grove

After weeks of frustration by the Madras White Buffaloes, they finally turned the tables on the opponents. This time it was Forest Grove, an independent AAA school located just west of Portland. The Vikings made their trek east to Central Oregon for a non-league game with the Madras White Buffaloes.

At the beginning of the game, the Vikings of Forest Grove took the opening kick-off and marched right down the field for a touchdown, done without much effort. The fast touchdown caught the Buffaloes off-guard and when they got the ball they were unable to do much with it. The Vikings held on to a 7-0 first quarter lead. In the first half the Buffaloes just didn't get on track and couldn't get any kind of drive going. A couple of times the Buffs all-purpose scat back Michael Holcomb almost broke loose, but the Forest Grove defenders were able to get their hands on him and keep him from a fast trip to pay dirt.

In the second half, as the Buffaloes were trailing 13-0, they started to put things together and were able to move the ball and scored their first touchdown as Holcomb ran the ball in. Justin Chester booted the extra point giving them seven and closed the gap 13-7. In the final quarter, Forest Grove was on the move and it appeared they might score. But, with third and six, the Vikings are called for holding and the Buffs elected to take the penalty giving them third and 16 and still near the end zone with two tries for a touchdown or a first down. With a fourth and five situation, the Vikings came out and set for a field goal which was successful, extending their lead to 16-7. After a series of downs, Holcomb finally broke loose on a 60-yard run, but a try for two failed and the run was stopped just short of the goal line, giving them the score of 16-13.

With time running down, the Buff defense rose to halt the Vikings, forcing them to punt when Todd Earnest broke through to block the punt, giving the Buffs good field position on the 23-yard line. After a couple of plays, Holcomb broke away and scooted into the end zone to put the Buffs ahead for the first time during the game, 19-16.

The try for two on the PAT, Quarterback Ryan Boyle hit Holcomb with a pass to put them out in front 21-16. A field goal would do the Vikings no good as they would have to score a touchdown to win the game, but time ran out on them, giving the Buffs the glorious victory.

The Buff defense had a big hand in the victory for the Buffs. They had the Viking quarterback scampering all over the back field and even sacking him for big losses. Hard-hitting Joel Martinez gave the Vikings trouble all evening.

The next for the White Buffaloes is the homecoming game this Friday night as they host the Nyssa Bulldogs. This should be a fine game as both ball clubs are about equal in all categories, but a win would sure help the Buff's morale at this point of the season.

Smith exercises regularly

Iris Smith has been exercising every day of the week for the past two years. This dedication to her physical fitness has earned Iris the Exerciser of the Month award for September.

Exercising about six hours a week helps Iris control her diabetes and diet. Iris said that Kathleen Moses inspired her to exercise, using herself as an example. "Kathleen told me that exercise is the key to being healthy," said Iris.

Iris participates in the diabetic chair exercise program three times a week and enjoys walking as well. The chair exercises "decrease my blood sugar," said Iris. The exercises also "help my coordination and reduce my stress level. I also get to socialize with other people when going trips with the diabetic group to demonstrate the program. I just have a lot of fun." The social aspect of exercising is very important to Iris.

Iris has taken up walking as a hobby and thinks that Wasco dancing is something her family might do together.

Becoming healthier is a specific goal reached through exercising, says Iris. However, when exercise classes are cancelled, Iris is disappointed. To overcome that particular stumbling block, Iris "takes out her frustrations by yelling."

Iris finds that "bumping into" other participants and "getting out of step" during exercise sessions is comical. She says the groups "just laughs together" when this happens.

Iris's words of wisdom are "if you feel you can't do any sort of exercise, get out and walk. Feel and smell the good air!" In addition, says Iris, "Try it, you'll like it. Don't worry about what people think of you."

Freshman football team sports undefeated record

by Tony "Big Rat" Suppah
 Freshman Football 1989 season. I refer them as the team of the future. If they stick together next year in their Sophomore season. That has been one of their main strengths so far, because majority of them, have been together since seventh and eighth grade. They were just getting into the sport and did very well both years, going undefeated.

They're a very tough and competitive. A great bunch of athletes. They've been very fortunate to have good coaching along the way, these past three years. They've come a long ways. But must learn to keep up that team spirit, or kill instinct the whole game. They push all out in the first half and seem to die out on start of the second half.

They must remember it takes four quarters to play and win the game. They must NEVER SAY

DIE, regardless what the score may read on the scoreboard. Never underrate any of their opponents. Play them like they're all tough. And never blame each other for individual mistakes. We're all only human, learn from the mistakes.

The team does have some good upcoming quarterbacks. Each with their own speciality on options or passing. They need to work to have both abilities. Some good running backs, receivers and linemen. Which could be the first team to develop a defensive team. Improvement has been seen, as each game is played. It's disappointing to watch coaches patting players on the back with compliments in practice, when they may have no intention of using the individual at all during game time.

If they wanted to watch the games, that could be done in the audience. You don't get experience sitting on the bench, when you're never given the chance to use your individual talents. A lot of individuals work very hard in practice. When others who feel they don't have to do so, when they are babied by the coaches. I see this as I watch daily practices.

When dissension sets in, then team concept goes down the drain. I, as do others support the Freshman 110%. We enjoy very much watching you compete. Good luck rest of the season and God bless you all.
