Indian Open Golf Oct. 6, 7

The Oregon Indian Open will be played at the Kah-Nee-Ta golf course October 6 and 7. This year's tournament will be played in memory of Lester Tanawasha who helped organize this tournament 10 years ago.

We are expecting well over a hundred entries including some of the finest Indian golfers from all over the United States and Canada. Last year's champion, Rick Majado, will travel from Palm Springs, California to defend his title he won shooting 70-72, two under par in our two-day tournament.

Angelo Gonzales, presently a law student at the University of Oregon, recently received three undergraduate degrees in Business Administration. He is a Sho-Ban from Fort Hall, Idaho, a two-handicapper, and is entered in the tournament.

Louie Pitt, who has won this tournament two times in the past, is expected to be a contender for the championship this year.

Other players who have won the tournament, and who are also in the field, are Tom Estimo, Larry Tulec, Levi Bobb and Lloyd Gauthier from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

This year's tournament is expected to be the largest and draw more talented Indian golfers than ever before.

Three major considerations are appearance, durability, and soil resistance:

- Appearance is, in most cases, the first consideration. Color and style are the main factors in making a decision. A fabric that does not meet one's design standards will be quickly discarded.
- Durability is a key concern due to the cost. Upholstery fabric is expensive and should wear a long time.

- Soil resistance and ease of cleaning are important today. Relaxed lifestyles and busy schedules demand fabrics that can take use and yet require little time to maintain. Fabrics treated with a soil resistant product can help with ease of care.

I said, "What?!" This young man looked at me and said, "Well! We helped this family with $100 earlier this year and all they qualify for now is $25, according to our guidelines."

I could not believe what I was listening to, so I asked, "Who are you working for?" His reply was, "Gayle Rodgers." I quickly asked, "Who is Gayle Rodgers working for?" "Sal Sahme," he replied. I again quickly asked, "Who is Sal working for?" His response, and I quote, was "I don't know."

My question, after this experience, is this: Whose idea is it to waste our money by hiring people who don't understand our needs, much less realize he is working for the people he treats with no respect? If these people don't even care who employs them and pays their bills, and then mistreats the very people he is supposed to be helping, we need to look at who's giving this man direction to act in such an uncaring way toward our people.

After all, it is our own money we are begging for and then to have someone like that young whelp tell us we don't meet the guidelines—this is ridiculous but he is our employee.

But we don't need an employee like this—he does not meet "our guidelines." We don't ask for help unless we need it—Help.

A concerned tribal member,
Daisy Ike
