What a Wonderful World

I see trees of green, red roses, too
I see them bloom for me and you
And I think to myself, what a wonderful world.
I see skies of blue, and clouds of white

worker Bobbie Whitecotton. This names a few.

My surgery was scary and I did live through it. Thanks for all your prayers and cards. I love you all.

Marrella VanPelt Sam

The bright blessed day, the dark says, "Goodnight"
And I think to myself, what a wonderful world.

The colors of the rainbow, so pretty in the sky
Are also on the faces of people going by
I see friends shaking hands, saying,
"How do you do?"

They're really saying, "I love you."
I hear babies cry, I watch them grow
They'll learn much more than I'll ever know
And I think to myself, what a wonderful world.

Torres had gone through a couple of false runs to the Mt. View hospital a few days earlier. Then on the morning of October 11, 1990 she had reason to believe that the time had come and rushed back to the hospital at 7 a.m. The doctors told her the baby was yet to high for delivery and sent her back home. She arrived back home by 8 a.m. She realized once again that she was in fact ready to deliver so at 9 a.m. she went to the Warm Springs Clinic and delivered Kara at 10 a.m.

When Dr. Manning was asked how many mothers had actually delivered their babies at the clinic before Torres, he believed there were five and one was delivered at its home in Warm Springs.
