With every summer come student workers. Junior and senior high school students flood the workplace as they take temporary positions with numerous departments in the tribal organization.

About 75 students are employed through the 1991 Summer Youth Work Program coordinated by Employment Services. In addition, there are other students who are working under a special program sponsored by the Natural Resources Department. These students are working as aides in conjunction with forestry, fisheries, range, water, soil and archaeology.

As summer rolls along, students will hopefully gain insight and experience in areas where their career and education interests lie. What better way is there to fill the long, hot days of summer?

Educators to increase native American awareness

Educators will be increasing their awareness of native Americans and Indian education at a summer institute scheduled for July 31 to August 2, 1991 at Kah-Nee-Ta Resort.

Sponsored by the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs and Central Oregon Community College the institute titled "Myth or Stereotype: First Oregonians in the Classroom," will feature both workshops and speakers focusing on Indian students and Indian literature.

Presenters include: Jarold Ramsey, professor of English and accomplished poet specializing in Native American literatures; Gerald Vizenor, internationally acclaimed Anishinabe (Chippewa) novelist, poet, storyteller and educator; Kathleen Sands, professor of literature specializing in folklore and American Indian literature. Other presenters will offer workshops on topics ranging from "Changing Student Behavior" to "Exploring Educational Experience of Indians from boarding schools, and rural and urban schools."

DRMP meetings scheduled

Public hearings on the draft Deschutes River Management Plan are scheduled at the following locations:

Festival set

The Warm Springs community is invited to enjoy the Cascade Children's Festival Saturday, July 27, 1991 in Bend. Tribal Court Associate Judge, Lola Sohapp, will be this year's grand marshal.

The parade will begin at the Mirror Pond Parking Lot and wind its way through downtown Bend and then return to Drake Park. The festival will begin at 9:30 a.m. There will be numerous activities and performers to entertain the entire family for the day.

Plan explained at workshops

The comment period on the final draft of the management plan for the Columbia Gorge National Scenic Area will focus on unresolved issues. Major change should not be expected to the document which has already been revised after a series of public hearings earlier in the process.

The plan brings together the Forest Service Management Plan for 115,000 acres of Special Management Area and the Gorge Commission plan for managing approximately 150,000 acres of General Management Area. Scheduled workshops will allow the public an opportunity to review changes in the plan, look at maps and ask questions of the Gorge Commission and Forest Service staff members. Nearby meetings are set for the following times: Thursday, August 8 in the Mid-Columbia Medical Center Office Plaza, 1810 E 19th St., The Dalles, Oregon from 4:00-9:00 p.m.; Tuesday, September 10 at the Mid-Columbia Medical Center Office Plaza in The Dalles from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. Other scheduled meetings are: July 30 in Corbett, Oregon; August 1 in Carson, Washington; and, September 12 in Washougal, Washington.

institute is $35 which includes two meals. For more information contact Geoff Bury at (503) 553-1428.

Taking a peak

Ron Palmer, a summer worker at Spilyay, constructed a pin hole eclipse viewer for the partial solar eclipse July 11. As the day progressed, a bit more of the sun disappeared as the moon munched away at it. Approximately 26 percent of the sun was hidden.
