Juvenile Justice Workshops set for Resort August 21, 22, 23

Up to 30 scholarships will be awarded to members of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs and native Americans living in Warm Springs for the upcoming Juvenile Justice Workshop. The three-day session, coordinated by the Warm Springs Tribal Court and the Cascade Law and Policy Institute, will be held August 21, 22 and 23 at Kah-Nee-Ta. Registration is $235 per person. The scholarships will cover tuition, materials, two lunches and a powwow and dinner. The scholarships were made available by Tribal Court, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Human Services and the Oregon Childrens Services Division.

The theme for this year's Gathering is "Harmony for Our Children." Harmony results when all involved, including children, families, community members and the legal system, work together toward common goals. Harmony does not just happen, it must be gained through the use of skills that can be learned by all.

Numerous workshops and panel discussion will focus on topic such as cross-cultural communication, advocacy for victims of crime, problem-solving fundamentals and many others. Each of the 15 workshops will be offered twice over the three days.

Teaching the workshops will be facilitators from across the United States as well as from Warm Springs. Their expertise in dealing with juveniles and their families will assist participants gain helpful information.

If interested in requesting a scholarship, applicants must submit their name, phone number and reason why they want to attend the workshop and why the scholarship is needed Tribal Judge Don Costello at PO Box 850, Warm Springs, Oregon 97761 or phone 553-3454.

The workshop is open to all

Tribal Council will take action on the 1991 hunting regulations at a meeting scheduled next week in Spokane. Providing the Council adopts the regulations, the Natural Resources Office will begin issuing tags beginning Thursday August 16. The Natural Resources office will be open until 7:00 p.m. on Friday, August 17. No tags will be issued on the weekend.

Following is Proposed Warm Springs Indian Reservation 1991 Big Game Hunting Regulations:

Deer Season Recommendations

Season: August 17th through October 31st.

Bag Limit: One (1) antlered deer per month per family.

Justification: The 1990 post season herd counts indicated a buck to doe ratio of 32 bucks per 100 does. The tribal management goal requires a ratio of 20-25 bucks per 100 does. The recommended bag limit and season should maintain deer herd composition and numbers at or above the management goal.

Changes from 1990 recommendations: None.

Elk Season Recommendations

Season: November 1 through November 30.

Bag Limit: One (1) antlered elk per family.

Justification: Elk populations are growing in some areas of the reservation and stable or declining in other areas. Quality habitat is being lost and poaching is a conditioned problem with some herds. The length of season and bag limit should maintain the elk population at or near its current level.

Changes from 1990 recommendations: None.

Bear Season Recommendations

Season: August 17th through November 30.

Bag Limit: One (1) bear per month per family except cubs and sows with cubs are protected.

Justification: The reservation has a healthy population of black bear and there is very little hunting pressure by tribal members. One hundred ten (110) tags were issued in 1990 with only 1 bear reported harvested.

Changes from 1990 recommendations: None.

Bird Season Recommendations

Season: September 1st through December 31st.

Bag Limit: Grouse-3 per day; Quail-10 per day; Pheasant-2 per season (roosters only); Chukar-10 per day; Turkey-1 per month.

Migratory Birds: Ducks, Geese, Mourning Dove.

Bag limits and seasons are established under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. Seasons and bag limits are the same as Federal and state regulations.

Justification: Bird populations are most affected by annual climatic conditions and habitat. Hunters pressure is very light on the reservation.

Other restrictions: Hunting of birds is limited to shotguns only.

Construction projects require careful driving, safety

Two construction projects have begun in Warm Springs which require careful driving and extra safety.

Work on the East Tenino Bypass Road will continue through the fall and then again next spring. Traffic will not be delayed as construction continues. When completed the bypass road will enter U.S. 26 east of Shitike Creek Bridge.

Reconstruction on one-half mile of Route 3 near Simnasho between milepost 21 and milepost 21.5 will create extended traffic delays. Appropriate warning signs and flaggers will guide traffic. Travel is encouraged via U.S. Highway 26 and Route 9 at HeHe to avoid the construction zone. Scheduled completion is six weeks.

Information due

Information about the Warm Springs Town Center will be in local mailboxes in mid-August.

An informational brochure will be distributed to all tribal members around August 15th.

Minors trust meeting set

Attention Tribal Member Minors that are 13-17 years of age during calendar year 1991 and their parents and guardians:

A meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, August 20, 1991 at 7:00 p.m. at the Agency Longhouse. A representative from the U.S. National Bank will explain the investment options for your Minors Trust funds. You will receive a letter dated August 1, 1991 which indicates your investment options. This letter needs to be completed and returned to The Confederated Tribes Vital Statistics Department no later than August 31, 1991.

Hope to see you there!

Tribal members express concerns about river use

Incidents of trespass, lack of privacy, overcrowding, and the disturbing use of jet boats were concerns expressed by tribal members and members of the public who attended the Warm Springs public hearing on the Deschutes River plan July 31.

The hearings are scheduled across the state to discuss the proposed plan for management of the federally designated scenic waterway which extends from Pelton Dam to the Columbia River. The 448-page draft includes sweeping restrictions on jet boats and riverbank camping along with a complicated system of allocating boating permits. It also discusses the "all-user fee" that would affect bank fishermen, hikers, bicyclists and others who visit the lower river.

The Tribes as a member of the Deschutes River Policy Group have lobbied to reduce recreational use on the river. The Tribe hopes to see a ban on jet boats on the entire lower river. They would also like to see

Columbia Gorge plan reviewed

The comment period on the final draft of the management plan for the Columbia Gorge National Scenic Area will focus on unresolved issues. Major change should not be expected to the document which has already been revised after a series of public hearings earlier in the process.

The plan brings together the Forest Service Management Plan for 115,000 acres of Special Management Area and the Gorge Commission for managing approximately 150,000 acres of General Management Area.

Scheduled workshops will allow the public an opportunity to review changes in the plan, look at maps and ask questions of the Gorge Commission and Forest Service staff members. Nearby meetings are set for the following times:

Thursday, August 8 in the Mid-Columbia Medical Center Office Plaza, 1810 E 19th St., The Dalles, Oregon from 4:00-9:00 p.m.; Tuesday, September 10 at the Mid-

Columbia Medical Center Office Plaza in The Dalles from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. Other scheduled meetings are: July 30 in Corbett, Oregon; August 1 in Carson, Washington; and, September 12 in Washington, Washington.

Changes from 1990 recommendations: None.
