

Army increases scholarship limit

The Army announced it is increasing to $30,000 the maximum amount of money for college available to qualified applicants who enlist for the Army College Fund (ACF).

This boost from the previous maximum of $25,200 for a four-year enlistment was initiated, with Congressional approval, to help restore the fund's buying power to its fiscal year 1985 origination level. College money is a potent enlistment incentive for the Army in attracting high-quality recruits. Last fiscal year 100 percent of new Army recruits were high school graduates, while 78 percent scored in the top half of the entrance aptitude test.

The $30,000 amount, like its $25,200 predecessor, is a special incentive which is created by combining money from the Montgomery GI Bill ($13,200) with a $1,200 contribution from the soldier, and the remaining $15,600 provided by the ACF. Similar increases have been made for a three-year enlistment providing $25,000 for college tuition, and a two-year enlistment providing $20,000.

As college expenses have increased, so has the importance of a college education to success in many career fields. At the same time, sources for funding college educations have declined. The ACF provides qualified individuals opportunities to obtain guaranteed funding for college.

A soldier who successfully completes a four-year enlistment with the money for college option would have $833.88 per month for each of four years of college, based on a nine-month academic year. The money may also be used for any schooling approved by the Veteran's Administration.

To qualify for the Montgomery GI Bill and the Army College Fund an applicant must have a high school diploma, achieve a score of at least 50 on the entrance aptitude test, enlist in a designated critical job skill, have no prior military service, and meet the other enlistment eligibility requirements.

Art Event set for Friday, April 16

Central Oregon Community College presents the April Art Event at COCC Friday, April 16, 1993 from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. at the Boyle Education Building, Room 155 (This is the first building to the left as you approach the campus on College Way).

The public is invited to this second of a series of three free art programs as the artists of the area say thank you for your wonderful support for the Allen/Rademacher Art Center on Mirror Pond.

Artists are again invited to join us and bring a sample of your work, sharing ideas and concepts for the first part of this informal gathering.

Hear Ken Roberts, Classical guitarist, performing a mini-concert of the Second Lute Suite by J.S. Bach. His recent venues include the Performing Arts Centers in Eugene and Newport; the Panada Theatre in Sandpoint, Idaho, and a six week tour of Five Star Resorts in Palm Springs and the Southwest, plus a November appearance at COCC.

Ceramics with Piepenburg, a slide program with ceramic demonstrations, by Toni Montgomery and Michael Gwinup who will discuss and show decorative and slab techniques taught at the recent Piepenburg ceramics workshop in Portland, Piepenburg, who lives in upper Michigan, has gained national recognition for his Raku glazes and techniques which have influenced Montgomery's Raku jewelry and Gwinup's work shown at Blue Spruce Pottery.

The COAA membership cost $25.00 and is open to all artists and patrons who wish to support the arts in Central Oregon. Join now and become part of the Allen/Rademacher Art Center's growth and development.

Madras Jr. High Culture Club members and advisors Martha Rios and Martys Alger are planning powwow set for April 23 at the Agency Longhouse.

Culture Club, NASU, ECE sponsor powwow

A powwow in association with the Early Childhood Center, and the Madras High School Native American Student Union honoring the Week of the Young Child is one of the activities in which the Madras Jr. High Culture Club is involved. The April 23 powwow will include dancing and entertainment involving many cultures.

Culture Club is a way to "pull together all cultures," says club advisor and MJH counselor Marlys Alger. The thirty-five students work together in planning activities that will help other students become aware of the diversity of cultures in the community.

Community members are invited to attend the Indian Night Out at the Agency Longhouse.

Local students doing well

Word has been received from Geoff Bury, Counselor at the Madras High School, about the following senior students: Floyd Calica, Teri Courtney, Philiana David, Russell Graham, Preston Haskie, Vangelique Jack, Levi Johnson, Charles Kalama, Alyssa Macy, Lief Suppah, Charles Wowa, Jason Williams and Samuel Wolfe. These senior students are earning good grades; many are active in sports, journalism, dance team and involved in other activities. The readers who know these young people, let them know you appreciate their good work. These are their final days at Madras High School and they will soon be graduating and lets all wish them the best.

Students to perform West Side Story

Students at Madras High School, under the direction of Walt Ponsford, are preparing to perform West Side Story. The play is tentatively scheduled for April 15, 16, 17 and 18. Approximately 30 students are involved with production of the musical. Tickets will be available at the door.

Have lunch...

This message is brought to you by the Jefferson County Council on Child Abuse Prevention. "People working to keep families together."

Parents, have you ever thought of having lunch with your child at school? Make a special date by contacting the school and have lunch with a friend, your child.

Early Childhood Education Center news

The Week of the Young Child will be celebrated April 18th through the 24th this year. A community-wide celebration is planned focusing on the needs and wonders of young children and to recognize the contributions of teachers and care givers. Four activities that any individual can do to support young children include:

- 1.) Take time to really watch, listen and appreciate children in your family and community.
- 2.) Help to make sure that children receive the preventive health services so vital to their health and development. If your child has a health need, please pursue follow up.
- 3.) Help early childhood education and care programs improve the quality of services provided to children. Volunteer some of your time in your child's classroom, day care room or at your chosen child care provider's.
- 4.) Do what you can to recognize the contributions of teachers and care givers and others supporting the high quality programs we have available in Warm Springs.

Planned Events include:
Tuesday 20 — mini natural resources day at W.S. Elementary
Wednesday 21 — penny carnival and fun night for children, 3-8 years old, at the Community Center (1 cent and 1 adult for admission). There will be an inexpensive concession.
Thursday 22 — ECE Children's Parade 10:00 a.m.
Friday 23 — Indian Night Out at Agency Longhouse
Saturday 24 — Recreation Department mini marathon & 1 mile fun run "Go the Mile with Your Child."

All week look at the children's art work posted around the community. All activities planned are designed to be opportunities for parents/guardians to share some special time with their young children. Young children are usually defined as those 3-8 years old. The entire Warm Springs community is asked to participate in as many activities as possible. Show your support for our youngsters and celebrate "The Week of the Young Child."

Upcoming ECE Events

Thursday, April 22, Video Lunch, at noon, will feature an informative Video about HIV/AIDS and how to talk with your young child about the virus and disease. Lunch will be provided - all are welcome.

Wednesday, April 28, at noon, it's the next "What's for Dinner?" nutrition workshop. Come share a meal, get some ideas for quick easy meals that are inexpensive and the family will eat, and ask any nutrition questions you may have. This month's theme is "Vegetables".

ABOUT CHILD SAFETY

TEACH YOUR CHILDREN:

What "hot" means at an early age. Let them touch a hot pan or blown-out match (but not hot enough to harm them).

To stay away from fires
and stoves, matches, cigarettes, electrical outlets, cords and appliances.

To "stop, drop and roll"
if clothes catch fire, never to run.

What to do in case of a real fire

- SOUND ALARM to alert the rest of the family.
- STAY LOW and crawl to an exit.
- FEEL DOOR — If warm, DON'T OPEN! Use alternate escape route.
- WAIT AT MEETING PLACE for the rest of the family.

Children are often victims because they don't know how to react when there is a fire.
