Spirituality workshop scheduled

A community information workshop, led by Dr. Terry Tafoya, will be held at the Agency Longhouse Thursday, June 10 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The theme is "Spirituality in Guiding Our Children: Harmony, Respect, Honor". A light dinner will precede the workshop.

Trained as a Native American storyteller, Dr. Tafoya is a Taos Pueblo/Warm Springs Indian who works on an international level as a consulting psychologist in the area of Systemic Family Therapy, cross-cultural issues of mental health and sexuality, HIV/AIDS, substance abuse and bilingual education. He serves on the National Teaching Faculty for the American Psychological Association and is a national consultant for the U.S. office of Substance Abuse Prevention.

Over the past two decades of university teaching and consulting, Dr. Tafoya has incorporated Native American concepts of traditional healing into his work with families and agencies.

His publications include: "Coyote in the Classroom: Oral Tradition for Classroom Use", "Pulling Coyote's Tale: Native American Sexuality and AIDS", "Circles and Cedar: Native Americans and Family Therapy" and "Coyote's Eyes: Native Cognition Styles".

The workshop is sponsored by Warm Springs Early Childhood Education. Child care can be provided if reservations are made. To reserve a child care spot or for further information, call 553-3241.
