SPILYAY SPEAKS

The way the weather is acting here lately a person would think Autumn is about to arrive as the days have been a bit cooler than usual. As they say, "Summer Time, when the living is easy." Them days have already passed and we must look forward to fall and winter. Pretty soon everyone will be complaining about the cold weather. The past few months its been that heat, which makes things miserable. Well, no one will ever completely be satisfied with what kind of weather we have.

Now that the fishing season is under way once again for a few days we should reflect back to the days when a person could see salmon jumping all over the place at the Celilo Falls about this time of the year. The abundance of salmon that passed up the river them days are now gone. The Dams and pollution from all the up stream activities cause most of the depletion of the salmon runs and they blame the Indians for destruction of the fish runs.

Tourists used to gather by the thousands to watch the Indians fish at the famous Celilo Falls, during the annual fall runs in the past.

Never being a fisherman in the past but kept in tact with interest as the Indian tribes from the northwest gathered each year at the Celilo Falls. It was amazing to ride those cable boxes across to those islands where most of the fishing was done. On the way over to the islands the boxes would be high over the water and you could look right down where the water went rumbling over the falls, sometimes a bit scary but yet exciting to be there.

In the evening when everyone was returning back for the night those boxes would be full of fish and when it was about half way across the whole box would hit the water as the people on them boxes got their feet all wet. Now that was real scary to be going over those falls with a load of fish, but it would feel good when the box would rise out of the water again and on its way to the un-loading zone.

But once the run was past the fishing was done as it was real slow to catch those stragglers coming up the stream. During those big runs the bucks really came rolling in for some guys that had the good fishing places. Yep! there are many tales to be told of the old fishing grounds of the past. There are some who even remember, "Salmon Head Beech." Some of those days were the real "Gook-Ole-Day's."

Toon-Un-Cha... Well, the cool weather is helping the firefighters here in the Northwest as the fire season nears its end also. We sure needed some moisture during the summer months but never saw a drop of rain at all. The fire season is in no means over yet as it can still get a pretty good blaze a going. Just like last week where The Chief Nelson Wallulatum lost his whole place. Home and all the structures around there. Yep! Fire is nothing to mess around with. It could burn the shirt right off your back if you don't watch out. There is some moisture falling in the higher elevations to slow the fire season down a little. Just think of all those acres of land that went up in smoke last summer, where even the Kah-Nee-Ta Resort was threatened. People evacuated out of their homes and all. Warm Springs was seen all across the nation on the CNN news. There have been several fires that have threatened homes in the area this year. We've been lucky to have not lost many structures so far.

Heath family thanks WSPD staff

To the editor,
 We are writing this letter to thank Lt. Frank Smith, Darlene Zacharias and Joe Thornbam for taking time out of their busy schedule to transport Johnson Heath, Sr. over to Mt. View Hospital to be with his wife Charlene Heath while she was in the hospital. he had to be transported over there because he is considered an escape risk and is not trusted on passes by himself. His wife has been in the hospital since August 24, 1994 and is very thankful that these people were able to transport him over to the hospital to be with his wife.

We are glad that he was to spend time with her even if it was only for a couple of hours a day. We are also very thankful Charlene lived through her ordeal.

We would like to thank these three people again. Thanks for being understanding during our time of need. Thanks again Lt. Frank Smith, Corrections officers Darlene Zacarias and Joe Thornbam.

True sense of family re-established

To the editor,
 Thank you for publishing this letter of thanks to all the members who made the Roosevelt Pow-Wow possible.

A special thanks to the dancers for braving the heat to give us enjoyment. Everyone was a winner.

I don't know about anyone else, but for me it was the best little Powwow I've been to in a very long time. I want you, Melinda, to know, whatever mistakes or hassles there were they were made up for by the true sense of family. I believe I can speak for my sister Eva when I say I felt such a warmth, I felt I belonged somewhere, I felt loved by my other side of the family. I met friends & family that actually seemed happy to shake my hand or to give me a warm embrace, thank you all for making my time special. Roosevelt will forever be a special place to me. The songs, drums, bells, testimonies still echo in my ears, and in my heart. Forgive me if I sound rather corny but that's me!

I was saddened to leave but see you next year.

Very sincerely,
 Blanche Walsey Williams
