

E Coosh EEWA: The way it is

SPILYAY SPEAKS

The Ms and I were having a cup of coffee one morning when she upped and asked me about all this stuff on diversity. What's been happening on this lately?

"Well," I sez, "as far as I know there have been some meetings held in Bend, Oregon on the subject but as far as any kind of plan to reduce prejudice and stuff like that I haven't heard of anything yet."

Speaking on prejudice feelings, once I was invited to one of their meetings in Bend, by Mr. Firestone, one of the advocates in the area and while in attendance the question was raised by one of the ladies who asked, "What's he doing here?" referring to me. Mr. Firestone had to explain that he invited me to attend the meeting. If a person really felt like he was in a place where he shouldn't have been, well that's just how I felt.. So where does it END?

Is the party over? Hope not, hope we can do more for our tribes in the future.

Just recently I read an article where the Coquille Indian tribe has a policy that will never have Per Diem (per capita?) payments. "I do not believe in that," said Mr. Anderson, "It creates a socialistic society. Take the Warm Springs, they live in tribal housing and they get $300 a month. A lot of them won't go to school and they don't want to work." And, as I read on down farther in the article, he went on to say, "The Coquille Tribal Council Chairman just passed a resolution giving the Tribal members a $400 rebate off the Price of Heritage Place. We have very little money, but we've done this, and as we get more money, eventually the Council will make the decisions to what kind of rebate they can give the Tribal Members at that time.."

Yep! It would be good if the Warm Springs Tribal members received $300 a month and lived in Tribal homes, What a way to go, Huh?

Have you ever been lost from your car in a parking lot?

Went to the Wrangler Pro-Rodeo at the Memorial Coliseum. Saturday night, drove into the parking lot, paid the fee and followed directions to my destination, never noticing what level I was on. In a bit of a hurry, I followed the crowd into the coliseum. I found my seat, which was in a good location overlooking the bucking chutes. Enjoyed an evening filled action packed rodeo and after it was over, I started to leave the arena. Sorta back-tracking the direction I cam in. Following the crowd I got on the elevator, where it goes down to the first level. I got out and the frantic hunt began. I walked from one end to the other, even got directions to the south parking area. Many things went through my mind like, someone stole the car, or it was towed away and stuff like that. After a second round of looking for my car I came upon one of the attendants and I explained to him that when I paid my parking fee I turned right and went down one level to park. He said, "If you went down one level than you must be up on the third level." Here I thought that there were just two levels, so I gets into the elevator goes to the third level, goes around the corner and there it sat, just where I left it. I jumped in, started up and went to the Motel and everyone lived happily ever after. AHH-NAHH-CHI-TOON!!!

To the editor,

Hello from Pastor Rick. Hidden Keys to Loving Relationships. Here is some more great info. Overcoming the major destroyer of relationships. ANGER. Anger in any relationship starts a process called the "Power Struggle".

Level one. Power struggle, issues are constantly raised but never resolved. Who's spending the money, a wet towel left on a chair. Frustration builds up so an issue that should be a "3" on the emotional Richter scale gets an "8".

Level two. Power struggle, as problems pile up, they'll drop the issue, and begin to pick on the person. "If she had any brains...If he was sensitive like Mary's husband..." The battle goes from issues to who's going to change and who's in charge.

Level three. Power struggle, the final option, attacking the relationship. "If these are the issues and he/she is the kind of person than what am I doing in this relationship!". At this level you question the relationship. Also, something happens in the relationship. Issues jump from level one to level three.

Employee of the month chosen

The Warm Springs Composite Products would like to take this time to recognize our Employee of the Month for December 1994. This award went out to Wayne Tappo. Wayne has been selected for the award by the following criteria: Safety in the workplace; quality of work; production quantity; attendance; personal initiative; attitude; cooperation, with fellow employees, lead people, supervisors and management.

An issue becomes grounds for divorce.

All this from level one to three gives all of us a closed spirit. Our inner person is a closed fist.

Now, how to open the fist. COMMUNICATION...Facial, eyes, mouth, eye brows etc. Tone of voice, soft/harsh, patient/quick. Touch, soft, assuring, supportive, understanding, firm, enthusiastic.

Smalley has five keys to open a closed spirit: 1) Become gentle, demonstrate tenderheartedness. 2) Understand what the other person has gone through, listening carefully not only to what the other person has gone thorough, but how it is said. What has caused their anger? 3) Acknowledge that the person is hurting and admit when you have been offensive. 4) Touch the other person gently. 5) Ask for forgiveness.

If the person does not begin to open right away, then start over. Get softer, increase your understanding and above all be carefully persistent.

See you in Church. Pastor Rick R. Ribeiro WS Presbyterian Church (on the campus)

Information offered

To the editor,

Thanks for putting the article in the December 94 issue. Reina was the only girl to try out for the Coos Bay boy's Little League. 130 boys, 6-7 grade level tried out for 2 teams of 15. Reina was an early selection by both coaches. She also played in the Southwestern Oregon Youth Activities Association (SWOYA) boy's basketball league as well. She was the first of her gender on both activities. No small achievement.

She also was selected to play in the Junior girl's ASA 14 and under all star team on softball but decided to concentrate her time to Little League. Making 8 put-outs in 8 games from center field. More than any boy in the league.

She is a very special girl who is being recruited by Southwestern Oregon Community College already. He asked her to attend the ladies SWOCC basketball practices and work out with the team if she so desired.

Thank you, Alfred Estimo, Sr, proud father

Items stolen

To the editor,

On December 10, 1994, a black hills gold class ring was stolen from me. It has my name engraved twice on it, once on the side and once on the inside of the band. My class year and where I graduated from is also engraved. The stone in the ring is blue zircon, my birthstone.

Also stolen was a diamond ring given to me by a very close friend. The ring has a gold band.

If anyone has any information on these rings, I would appreciate it very much if you would give me a call at 553-1465, at work 553-3233 or at the Greeley's residence at 553-1387 after 5:00 p.m.

There was also a set of keys lost. There were a couple of keys chains that said "I break for parties", one that had a gold '94 and one from Seattle. On the key chains were three box keys along with a few others.

Please, if anyone knows anything about my rings or keys please give me a call.

Sincerely, Danielle H. Sahme

Annual bowling tournament a great success

This year the 19th Annual Warm Springs Holiday Indian Bowling tournament was a tremendous success. We want to thank all the bowlers, for they are the ones who make it so, filling almost every squad.

Numerous local bowlers also contribute/donate to our raffle and we thank each and every one of them. By their contributions we were able to make added funds to several of the prize fees of different events, in addition to our customary added purse for team events. Local bowlers also contribute to our Sunday bowlers meal, and our big thanks to those people. Also a big thank you to Charlotte Shike, Norene Greene, Sandra Danzuka, Helena Jones, and Sandra Greene for providing our New Year's Eve snacks! And to Cougar for taking time to shop for our party hats and noise makers—everyone had a great time (including the kids)!

An added feature this year to our tournament was the Saturday morning YABA tournament. Although we had a small turnout this first year, the kids enjoyed themselves and we hope next year to have more participation. So parents, keep this in mind, all our young and upcoming bowlers can look forward to an annual local Indian YABA tournament, if we can get it off the ground, so we will be looking forward to more YABA bowlers next year.

A special award will be going out to Angie Spino for 75 pins over her average (she actually bowled 96 pins over her average). Congratulations to Sach Miller also for bowling a fantastic 708 series. It was the highest series for the tournament. Congratulations bowlers!

This year's tournament was held in memory of past bowlers of the Warm Springs League-Milan Smith, Sr., Lloyd Smith, Sr., and Alvin Smith. We had jackets and vests donated by Warren R. Clements, and in honor of these bowlers these were presented by Rudy as follows: Lloyd Smith, Sr.-Norene Greene, Alvin Smith-Ray Shike, Sr., Milan Smith, Sr.-Eugene Greene, Sr.

Thanks to all

To the editor,

My name is Val, I had fun selling raffle tickets for Simnasho's Christmas pow wow. I wanted to say thanks to all the people who bought raffle tickets from me.

During the pow wow, I wore my new jingle dress. Did you see me? I want to say thanks to Freda Mitchell for such a beautiful dress. I hope to see you next year dancing at Simnasho during their pow wow!

Thanks again for buying tickets. Val Sarah Suppah

Help appreciated

To the editor,

I would like to thank these following special people for helping me in my time of need. For picking me up for church services and checking on me, even after working hours were over. Thank you Flossie Wolf, Pat Allen, Lorraine Alonso and William Sam.

Sincerely, Barbara Bobb
