OIEA Conference to be held April 12-14

The Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation, in cooperation with the Oregon Indian Education Association (OIEA), will be hosting the 20th Annual Oregon Indian Education Conference April 12-14, 1995 at the Convention Center in Pendleton, OR.

The purpose of the Conference is to address American Indian educational concerns, exchange ideas and provide direction for work with American Indian children, families and educational institutions. A wide range of workshops and presentations will be provided for students, parents, educators and community members on topics ranging from early childhood to adult education.

A special session will be held on April 11, immediately preceding the OIEA conference: the Northwest Indian Language Forum. The forum will feature presentations of successful Indian language programs with opportunity for hands-on experience in the use of computers for language instruction. The Language Forum, hosted by the Warm Springs Confederated Tribes and the CTUIR, will be held April 11 from 8 am to 5 pm at the Red Lion Inn in Pendleton.

Several social and cultural events will be offered in conjunction with the conference including a friendship feast and celebration, banquet and awards luncheon to recognize outstanding contributions to Indian education. As an added attraction, the CTUIR recently opened its multi-million dollar Wildhorse Gaming Resort five miles east of Pendleton, which includes a full service restaurant and gift shop.

Registration fees for the conference range from $45 for students (pre-registered) to $100 for adults (on-site registration). Everyone is welcome to attend (conference presentations/workshops do not apply exclusively to Oregon issues). For more information, contact Lou Farrow at the CTUIR Education Department: 503-276-8120.

This year's conference theme is "Students Today, Warriors of Tomorrow". The Oregon Indian Education Association (OIEA) is a statewide organization dedicated to promoting quality educational services for American Indian people in the State of Oregon. Planners expect 400-500 people to participate in the conference.

Seniors Citizens received special attention from the children during the morning powwow. Each child from ECE gave something special to one Senior Citizen, then they either gave them a hug or a hand shake. See related photos on page 3.
