Radio station rates second best dio station ratings, KWSO-FM is the second most listened o radio station, overall, in Jefferson County. Results of the survey, conducted by Willhight Research, Inc. from march 30 to May 24, 1995, show KSJJ-FM with 26.9 share, KWSO-FM with a 29.6 share and K-TWINS with an 11.3 share in the total persons 12+, Monday-Sunday 6 a.m.-midnight category. Last year in the same category, KSJJ was on top with a 24.7, then; K-TWINS/ 14.7, KQAK/14.5 and KWSO was fourth with a 10 share.

KWSO was number one in four key demographic cells. According to Willhight research, KWSO was on top in the Adults 25-54, Monday-Friday, 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. category with a 25 share, KSJJ was next with a 23.7 and K-TWINS 3rd with 14.6. Here too, KWSO made significant gains compared to last years survey. Which showed KWSO fourth.

KWSO station manager, Mike Villalobos gives most of the credit to

According to the most recent ra- the on-air staff. "Obviously a large number of listeners in Jefferson County like what they hear when they tune their radios to 91.9 FM. Steve McNally, Sue Ryan, Delson Suppah, Dana Smith, Ken Miller and Liz Smith, our core announcers, are talented and as professional sounding as any announcers anywhere. Our ratings prove it. Alot of credit is also due to Warren R. Clements, Director of the Public Information Branch of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs who oversees the operation of KWSO. The 19th Warm Springs Tribal Council had a great deal to do with our success since they helped support the radio station and allowed us to serve our community.'

In addition to enjoying dancing, Native American crafts and artwork and various types of foods, visitors and participants of the 1995 Pi-Ume-Sha Powwow will have an opportunity to join the National Marrow Donor Program's (NMDP) circle of life, and increase the chances Native Americans searching the NMDP Registry have for finding a lifesaving marrow match.

Help complete the circle of life at Pi-Ume-Sha NATIONAL A marrow donor drive will be held in conjunction with the Pi-Ume-Sha Powwow at the Warm Swiger. (HLA) tissue typing. Donors'

Room One, on Saturday, June 24 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, June 25 from 12 noon to 3 p.m. More than 15 individuals participated in the first annual donor drive during 1994 Pi-Ume-Sha activities.

The NMDP Registry is a computerized databank of tissue-typed potential volunteer donors nationwide. Currently 85 Native Americans are searching the NMDP Registry for an unrelated matching marrow donor who may provide their only hope for a cure from diseases such as leukemia and aplastic anemia.

Because the unique tissue characteristics of an individual's bone marrow are inherited in the same say one inherits skin, eye and hair color, a Native American patient's best chance of finding a perfect match is with another Native American. Of the more than 1.6 million potential donors currently listed on the Registry, fewer than 18,000 are Native American. Of the nearly 14,000 potential donors from Oregon, fewer than 200 are Native American.

To join the NMDP Registry, potential donors give two tablespoons

Sha Powwow at the Warm Springs tissue type results are added to the databank and compared with each patient searching the registry Since 1987, more than 3,380 patients have received NMDP-facilitated marrow transplants. Only 14 Native American patients have found unrelated matches through the NMDP. As the number of potential Native American marrow donors listed on the Registry increases, so will the odds of survival for Native American patients in need.

Joining the Registry does not guarantee that a person will be a match and be asked to donate marrow for a patient needing a transplant. If a preliminary match is found, further tests are performed to ensure an exact tissue type match. If the donor and recipient prove compatible, and the donor consents, his or her marrow will be drawn in a minor surgical procedure. To ensure confidentiality, donors and recipients are told little about each other.

Potential marrow donors must be between 18 and 55 years of age, and be able to pass a thorough physical examination.

For more information about the NMDP Registry, call Jean Johnson at 1-800-922-3998.

Federal justice rules in Indian Country

A non-member appears before a federal Magistrate on drug and endangerment charges traffic stop on the evening of June 7 has made tribal history. The normally routine action by Warm Springs patrol officers led to the arrest of a non-Indian man on drug-related and child endangerment charges. The 43-year-old man, an Indian Health Service x-ray technician, is the first to appear before a U.S. Magistrate judge on the Warm Springs Reservation. If found guilty, the defendant could face substantial fines and spending time in federal prison.

The defendant, Gary Stedder, brought from the Warm Springs Detention Center in handcuffs after spending the night in the tribal jail, made his initial appearance before Magistrate Dennis Hubel on June 9. Stedder was subsequently charged with possession of a controlled substance and endangering the welfare of a minor. Stedder was represented by a court-appointed federal defender. U.S. District Attorney Michael W. Mosman served as chief Stedder was released from custody after Judge Hubel read the conditions of his release. Conditions included reporting to pretrial services; Stedder must refrain from using alcohol and drugs; he must submit to UA testing and pay a percentage of the testing fee; he must undergo drug and alcohol counseling and fee; he must have no contact with the witnesses, nor contact with minors except if required in his work, and he pay a percentage of the counseling must he have any must have no new law violations, whether they be state, federal or tribal. Hubel also "took under advisement" the matter of excluding Stedder from the Reservation.

Failure to comply with any of the conditions of his release could lead to even higher fines and a longer jail term. "These are serious compliance matters," Hubel told Continued on page 2

Dennis Hubel, an attorney with the Bend law firm that represents the Confederated Tribes, was appointed federal Magistrate Judge and will hear most Magistrate cases on the Reservation.

Gaming road approved

The Bureau of Indian Affairs, Warm Springs Agency proposed to construct a highway project, using Federal Highway trust funds on the Warm Springs Reservation, OR. This road will serve to improve access to the Kah-Nee-Ta Lodge and Indian Head Gaming Center.

Preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement as cited under Section 102(2)(c) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969-42

USC 4223(2)(c) is therefore not required.

Factors Supporting a Finding of No Significance:

tected by adequate drainage and soil protection (seeding etc.)
