Joe Hipp to meet Bruce Sheldon August 19

The number two ranked heavyweight boxer in the world, Joe Hipp, had established his training camp at Indian Head Gaming Center in Warm Springs, as he prepares for an August 19th challenge of the World Boxing Association's Heavyweight Championship.

Joe Hipp has already achieved a significant first—the Native American to be ranked a "top-ten" contender for the Heavyweight Championship of the World. He expects to achieve even more important firsts—to be the first Native American to be the Heavyweight Champion of the World.

Hipp's manager, Roland Jankelson, said that Eugene businessman Ritch Danner is responsible for Hipp locating his training camp in Oregon. "We had opportunities to set up training in a number of locations including Australia, Ritch conveniently arranged for everything we required so we decided on Oregon". That fact also allows Hipp to return to the roots of his professional career. Joe had his first bout in Eugene, Oregon his first ten round main event there and trained in Eugene for two years Jankelson said.

Hipp (30-3) will meet Bruce Sheldon (32-3) of Atlantic City in the 12 round WBA Heavyweight Championship as part of a pay-per-view presentation which includes the highly publicized come back of Mike Tyson. The event takes place August 19th at the MGM Grand Garden in Las Vegas Nevada.
