Troop 59 attend summer camp at Camp Baldwin August 13-19

A week of camping, swimming, horses, archery, rifle shooting and fun was waiting for twelve Warm Springs Boy Scouts and three adult August 13-19, 1995 when Troop 59 went to Camp Baldwin for summer camp.

Camp Baldwin, located in the forest between Dufur and Mt. Hood, is a full program Boy Scout Summer Camp. In addition to the waterfront, rifle and archery ranges, campcraft, and nature area programs that regular Boy Scout summer camps have, Camp Baldwin also has a horse corral, rock climbing and other high adventure hiking and mountain bike programs for the campers. There were about 250 campers from eighteen other scout troops at Camp Baldwin with Troop 59.

The first day at camp included an orientation, swim test, camp wide dinner and campfire program. Troop 59's campsite was Mustang Ridge, one of the closest campsites to the horse corral.

The scouts were responsible for cooking all but four of their meals at Mustang Ridge. Martie Markgraf, mother of Mark Smith, spent the first three days at summer camp with Troop 59, said that she had fun watching the scouts cook for themselves and work as a team.

During the week at camp the scouts worked on various advancement
