E Coosh EEWA: The way it is

SPILYAY SPEARS

By Sid Miller

Veterans Day is nearing, a day set aside to honor all those young men who sacrificed their lives during war time. To honor all who served in the armed forces of the United States.

All veterans should take pride on this day as they were willing to put their lives on the line during hostel times around the world.

Many years ago this day was known as "Armistice Day," after the end of World War One. Thats when the war ended in Europe, where war ragged in the trenches, mud and behind the barbwire, throw in some poison gas or chemicals. There are just a very few men left from that War which ended in 1917.

For several years the world was at peace but behind the scenes there was plans of war in the European countries, as the Nazis were on the move until the start of world war II, when Germany invaded Poland, in 1939. From there they went on to other countries, like Romania, the Netherlands and the war was spreading all over Europe. In the meantime in the far east the Japanese were stirring up a lot of camotion as they were invading small countries and parts of China. The United States was pretty much natural all this time while things were building up all around the world.

Well the Japanese sided in with the Axis forces and really went on a rampage taking all the Island in the South Pacific. All the activities around the world and the United States was not envolved in anyway.

But than on December 7, 1941, the Japanese Empire made a sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, on Oahu, Hawaii. Their attack cought the Americans with their hands down and crippling most of the Fleet that was anchored at Pearl Harbor. Many many Americans lost their lives during that sneak attack which prompted the United States to declare war on the Japanese Empire and the Axis forces around the world. The sneak attack was planned to cripple the U.S. Fleet that was in the Pacific theater at that

Today as you visit Hawaii, you can still see the remains of all the battleships that was sunk during that attack. The memorial of the USS Arizona, where hundreds of sailors lost their lives with out a chance to get away. Yep! it was on a Sunday morning on a peaceful morning when the

That put the United States of America into the war, and so the World War II was in full swing. Today we read of all those battles of the South Pacific and in Europe during WWII. The Fall of Bataan, Corregidor, Leyte, Mindanaio, and the death march by the U.S. Prisoners of War.

When the U.S. finally made their aggressive move was the invation of Guadalcanal, and from there it was a Island hopping job of retaking all those small Islands taken by the Japanese, the Gilbert Islands, the Marshall Islands the Marianas, where all those horrible battles at Tarawa, Sipan, Iwo Jima, Okinawa and Guam. The retaking of the Philippines.

In the mean time the U S forces landed on North Africa and were pushing their way up through Italy, and finally the big landing at Normandy. That took a lot out of the German army and they were being pushed right back to Germany. Finally the war was over in Europe, but there was still fierce fighting in the Pacific Theater with the Japanese.

As the troops were coming home from Europe and many were preparing to go on to the Pacific Theater it was decided to drop the A-Bomb, which really put the end of WWII. The unconditional Surrender by the Japanese forces ended the Big World War.

World Series

The World series are the highlights of the happenings around here today and the games are between the Cleveland Indians and the Atlanta Braves. Or should I have said the Cleveland Native Americans VS The Atlanta Native Americans?

To some folks who work for a living everyday think it's pathetic on how some people re-act to something like the Cleveland Indians, something that has been around here for years and years and no one has been hurt from that. The Name of the Cleveland Indians, The Atlanta Braves, for the majority of the real Indians who live and work for their living don't even pay any attention to the names. It's just people who have nothing to do but sit around and think up bad things they can do to stir up a fuss on petty

These names have been around so long that even the grand parents never gave it much thought at all. Like they say, its only a game.

Yep! The Working Native Americans can care less of what the teams are called. They are too busy taking care of their families and their jobs and not out looking for hand-outs. I've been a Cleveland Indian fan all my life and I'm sure not gonna change my ways now.

Thank you for your help

Dear Community members,

It is with great relief and gratitude that I write this letter to let special people know how grateful I am to have them in my life.

The frightening incident involved my fiancé, Dane Jackson who hadn't returned home from work on Saturday, October 14, 1995.

To make a long story short, Dane was returned home to me safely in the early morning on Monday. You cannot believe the relief I felt when I heard his footsteps come in the door.

Late Sunday evening I was advised by Dane's mother to contact. the police department to see what we should do. I am very grateful that our community has a group of people such as the Search and Rescue Team who responded immediately when the incident was reported. I don't know who specifically involved, but THANK YOU! And also a big thank you to the WS Police department personnel who was involved.

I would like to thank Johnny Guerin & Tanya for their cooperation and support when I reported the incident to them, as Dan is employed

I would like to thank my two beautiful aunts, Eliza Brown & Neda Wesley for coming to my apartment

To the editor,

On with the day - to figure which of the individuals bring curse, from the ones which are the way to life. Questions bring laughter and tears. Others bring "New Hope," presence, also with this faith. Childcare costs cut

To the people of Warm Springs, I am in my final term at Portland State University. As a tribal member, I am a recipient of a tribal scholarship which is renewed each term based on meeting or exceeding class credit requirements and G.P.A standing. For the past six terms, I have received a child care allowance as a part of my tribal scholarship. This allowance provided much need assistance to pay for preschool costs so I could attend classes.

I am a single mother going to school full-time. This term, on the second day of classes, I received a letter in the mail from the Education Department informing me that I would not be receiving any child care assistance since my daughter is not an enrolled member. First of all, it was my understanding that my tribal scholarship was to assist me through higher education (I am a tribal member) and that the child care allowance was a part of that scholarship. Second, having received this assistance in the past six terms led to great difficulty and financial stress when I found out this term, Twinky after the term began, I would not be receiving it.

My questions are 1) How is an already tight college budget supposed to survive such a decision without any prior warning? and 2) Since my daughter is eligible for enrollment through the adoption process, how is it that she is shut from the community and its resources when the he adoption process is put off through no fault of ours?

Which leads me to anther subject. As this is my final term, I intend to return to WS after graduation. I am looking forward to returning home with my daughter and contributing to my community. I am proud that will be returning with a college degree. It is not something I could have done without the assistance of my tribal scholarship and the support of my family. I have worked hard not only for myself and my family, but for the people of WS, who invested faith and support in my achievements and potential.

As a former Miss Warm Springs, I proudly represented all of the people of WS as an Indian person. This craziness about pedigrees had me deeply saddened. I have to carry my "pedigree card" and it gives me a fraction that some people use to judge my "Indianess". As far as I am concerned, being who you are is not about dividing fractions. I am an Indian as much as I am a woman, a mother, a human being. As an Indian, I raise my daughter according to all of the values and traditions that are being passed to me. Whether she is accepted or rejected by my community will not keep her from being who she is, an Indian.

Things being as they are, I can only say that I am fortunate that I have had my scholarship stripped of child care assistance in my final term, otherwise, I may not have been able to finish school. It would have been a great help to have received notice in time to make arrangements, especially since notice could have been given. My thanks to Tedi Tanewasha for the support she has personally given through this hardship. Greater thanks to my mother ("Grandmother") who has helped emotionally and financially beyond measure.

Sincerely, Nicole Clemens

Life full of "laws"

To the editor,

Hello from Pastor Rick. Wow, my week has been full of "what's the use", "they don't care", "it doesn't matter": "why have a seat belt law..the police don't do anything anyway". "Why stop drinking, it's

You know there is a God. For me to put up with a week of anger, selfrighteous, pity-pot, and brats. Why does an attitude that is filled with pessimism, and "ME" statements seem to fill the air?

Somewhere out in the world there is a law that says the world is to bend my way. The second law says if it will not bend my way then the world is to stand straight up. The third law says if the world will not bend my way and will not stand straight up, it will not be out of reach. Yep, somewhere out in the world these three laws are written. Yeah, right, if you believe that then come see me about some swamp land up on the flats I'll sell you cheap. There are no written laws, yet we carry the attitude as if they exist. To be down on life or a part of it is not allow a living God to be a part of you. A bum attitude is a small window to the soul. You see what is truly part of a person's life. You see images of the Lord or a poor reflection of the burden that a person carries inside of themselves. What is the written Law? First law, God is Love. Second law, Love your God. Third law, Love yourself and others. If the third law is too tough, go to the second. If the second is confusing, remember the first. A bum attitude or an attitude of love. See you in church.
