Video Camcorders on buses

The school district has many school buses, and hundreds of routes each day. A small number of students have caused problems for others by violating the conduct rules contained in the student handbooks.

To help prevent and monitor such occurrences, the district has installed video camcorder stations in its buses, and from time-to-time will be videotaping bus routes. The cameras are not visible to students, so they will not know when they are being taped.

If misconduct or violation occurs, and if it has been recorded by the camcorder, the tape will be reviewed and the evidence analyzed. Students who do not follow the bus safety rules may be referred for disciplinary action.

Pictures and sound on these tapes are protected from disclosure as "student records," and will be governed by appropriate school, State and Federal rules on student privacy. If a tape is used for disciplinary action, the parents may view the tape. Tapes not used for disciplinary purposes will be erased and re-used.

Should you have any questions, or need to view a tape, please contact Don Vandeweghe, Transportation Supervisor for the District, at 475-3536.

Parent Letter

The Week of the Young Child
It is our time to demonstrate honor and respect to our children today and tomorrow....

If there is anything we wish to change in the child, we should first examine it and see whether it is not something that could be better changed in ourselves.

—Carl Jung

Children are smart. Remember how we used to imitate our parent's behavior? We'd dress up like them, mimic their words, even copy their attitudes. We wanted to be just like them because we thought they were the most wonderful people in the world. We can see this happen all around us, younger ones imitating parents, older brothers and sisters, and older friends.

The problem is that children imitate not just healthy behavior and attitudes, but also sometimes the not-so-healthy behavior and attitudes. We get very uncomfortable when we look at a younger person misbehaving and see ourselves in that person. Suddenly, we aren't flattered any more.

When we see thing we don't like in others, we must first look at ourselves to see if we need changing. This is all we can do - change ourselves. Others may follow our example or they may not, but we can be sure that, when we watch our own behavior, most of what we see of ourselves in others will be flattering.

What change can I make in myself to set a good example for the young ones, today?

Submitted by, Delson Suppah, ECE Parent Club President.
