Kah-Nee-Tah golf pro says, "Warm up more..."

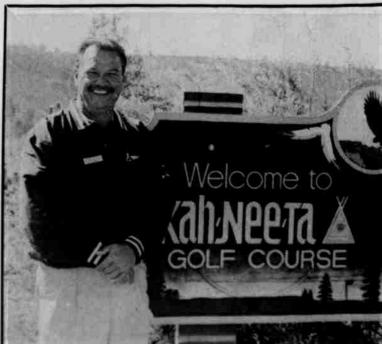

As the weather gets cooler, it becomes more important that we stretch, and warm up before teeing off says Joe. Here is a five minute stretch routine that I encourge golfers

Starting from the top, roll your head slowly side by side, five or six times. Next come the shoulders. Roll your shoulders slowly front to back five or six times. Now bring your arms one at a time across your chest and hold 5-10 seconds, and repeat.

Keeping your feet still, turn your body to the right and hold 5-10 seconds, and then to the left and hold 5-10 seconds and repeat. Now placing your hands just below your knees, gently stretch your legs, and hold 5-10 seconds, and repeat.

With your body now stretched take two to three clubs, and swing them slowly back and through. Now you're ready to go. Remember, not only do we need to dress warmer, we need to warm up
