"The Indian Warrior Veteran's Corner"

On Thursday, March 6, 1996, personnel from the Department of Veterans Affairs, from the Portland and Vancouver area came to Warm Springs, to put on a little workshop pertaining to the Minority Vererans. The workshop attracted local veterans and many came from Yakima and other parts of the northwest.

With the invocation by a local Veteran, Marvin Meanus, the workshop got under way with a Welcome address by Russ Alger, Director of the P.H.S. Center here in Warm Springs.

The key to the whole workshop was the personnel from the Department of Veterans Affairs, were trying to touch base with the Indian Veterans who always seem to be forgotten when its time to help the veterans. Perhaps because most Indian Veterans are isolated on Indian Reservations, they tend to be over looked.

"Why are we here?" Terry R Albertus, Contract Specialist, Native American Program Manager, VA Medical Center, gave a run down on all the benefits there for the Native American Veterans. She pointed out that what ever the problem may be there are staff members ready to assist you. The Minority Veterans program at the Portland VAMC has been created to assist Minority Veterans with accessing appropriate resources with in the VA Medical Center, the Veterans Benefits administration and Vets Centers. The program's out reach efforts envolve; (1) National Veterans Service Affairs; (2) Internal VA Services and Programs; (3) National Minority Organizations; (4) Community Based Veterans Organizations; (5) Non Traditional Community based groups that service

In June 1995, the Minority Veterans Programs were established throughout the VA Medical Centers under the direction of the Center for Minority Veterans was established under P.L. 103-446, on November 2, Minority Veterans.

The goals and objectives of the Center are first, to promote the use of existing programs, benefits and services by Minority Veterans, and second, to propose new programs, benefits an services to meet the specific needs of Minority Veterans. Plans to accomplish these goals are the roles of the Minority Veterans Programs Coordinators under the direction of Deborah William's, who is the VA Medical Center Minority Veterans Programs Director.

We have many Veterans who face Post Traumatic Stress from being in combat during their tour in the service. Many do not want the public to know of their conditions. There are people out there that can help. Another topic discussed was the, Agent Orange, where GI's came in contact during their tour in Vietnam.

There were people on hand to answer any question f person might have had. It was well worth the time for the Vet's who were present. The Program rounded out with a guest speaker right after lunch, Faye Waheneka. She game a rundown on what might be referred to as a century of wars. As a child she experienced seeing her grand parents go through hard times as their son had to leave for the service, her father leaving for the service. And as time passed she experienced what she saw her grand parents go through, as she now had a son who departed to the service. It's like a big cycle where everyone experiences bad times during their life time.

Personnel who were present to answer questions, to name a few were, Phillip Osborn, Oregon Employment Department, Veterans Representative; Carl Whaley, M.S. Team Leader, Department of Veterans Affairs; Mike "Rocky" Oregon Barker, Central Representative, Disabled Veterans Outreach Program; June Reed RN Women's Health Primary Nurse, Portland VA Medical Center; Misty Anne S. Kivuna, M.S.W., L.C.S.W. Social worker for the Homeless Veterans Facility, Vancouver, WA. The workshop was well worth for the veterans. There will be another meeting similar to this, if not in Warm Springs, it will be at another Indian reservation.

We owe a big Thanks to Chorlotte Herkshan, who worked very hard to get this gathering together. The closing remarks were by Charlotte and Terry Albertus. The theme "Pride, Dignity, Courage.

Member resentful to Vital Statistics

To the editor.

To Whom it may concern: I wasn't involved in an accident that I feel I need to share. I received a check in my mail box with my name and address. Naturally I cashed the check, thinking I am finally receiving my per capita and/or a land sale lease. The following working day, I get a call from the Vital Statistics Department stating THEY had sent me some funds that were suppose to be for someone else with the same first name, the last name spelled different, the middle initial is different, the social security number is different, the entity and enrollment number is different, but some how through a new individual working in their office sent ME the funds. WE WANT YOU TO RETURN THE FUNDS. Well, I never paid back the funds because I felt it was their error.

During our bonus payment, this money was deducted from my check. I received a very tart letter from Vital Statistics office, expressing disappointment about me not refunding the money and that they have the authority to deduct the money from my bonus payment. Meanwhile, the lady who was suppose to receive the payment from the very beginning had reported to BIA about not receiving the check and to Vital Statistics. Through the duration of all this, I received in my mail the letter of claiming a fund (check) not received. ou know, is this your signature, is this your address.

Could I claim back the money that was taken from my bonus payment? It would seem someone is making or could possibly BE sending out funds (checks) to the wrong people....still?

Same name?

Do other office practices allow people access to this vital information who are not aware of the consequences for their mistakes? I did nothing wrong. I resent the fact I was punished for someone else's mis-
