Crow's Shadow Institute announces the appointment of Elizabeth Woody, well-known poet and visual artist, to its governing board. A published author of short fiction, essays and poetry and receiver of many national and regional awards for her work, Elizabeth has worked teaching workshops, mentoring, and giving presentations and lectures throughout the country, as well as teaching creative writing at the Institute of American Indian Arts in Santa Fe, New Mexico. As a visual artist, Ms Woody has exhibited regionally and nationally.

In Oregon Ms. Woody served on the Northwest Native American Arts Services Task Force, sponsored by the Eastern Oregon Regional Arts Council and was one of the founding members of the Northwest Native American Writers Association. Ms. Woody has served as a juror on multi-disciplinary art fellowship panels for several arts organizations in the Pacific Northwest.

Storytellers, Woody will be part of the leadership of the national organization which includes a mentorship program, publications, a directory, and regional and national conferences centered on Native American literature and communities.

Schoolie '98 Timber sale

The Timber Committee has released a final draft of the Schoolie '98 Timber sale for public review. The document was prepared by the Project Interdisciplinary Team to provide options for a timber harvest in the Beaver and Upper Warm Springs forest planning units beginning in 1998.

Three alternatives were formulated and numerous logging methods were considered for this project, taking into account present resource conditions, forest health and public input. The sale is expected to yield approximately 35 million board feet of gross volume timber.

The document is divided into sections explaining the purpose and need for action, resource-based indicators used to help the technical staff analyze and mitigate environmental impacts, and details of the three alternatives. There are maps showing the harvest blocks, quick reference tables to compare the alternatives, a list of measures needed to mitigate environmental consequences, and the Project Interdisciplinary Team's recommended alternative.

The goal of Alternative A is to continue current management. Activities such as livestock grazing, hunting, recreation and cultural food gathering would continue as in the past. The only harvest proposed under Alternative A would be through salvage operations that removes trees killed by fire, wind, insects or other causes.

The emphasis of Alternative B is to treat stands with high forest health problems. Under Alternative B, a net timber harvest of 32 million board feet would take place on 1,509 acres, primarily through commercial thins and shelterwood prescriptions.

The emphasis of Alternative C is to treat stands with high and moderate forest health problems. Under Alternatives C, a net timber harvest of 31 million board feet of timber would take place on 1,417 acres, primarily through commercial thins and shelterwoods.

The alternatives would have varying impacts on water, fish, wildlife, cultural, timber, range, soil and economic resources. There would also be some changes to the transportation system, which would include eradication of unnecessary roads.

For more information or copies of the document contact Matt Jimenez or Rich Lohman in the Forestry Department, or call 553-2416. Tribal members have 30 days to comment on the proposed sale.
