

Logo winner for Tobacco Awareness Society receives check and recognition—

Jackie Estimo of Warm Springs, has won the Logo contest for the Warm Springs Tobacco Awareness Society.

Jackie, an employee of Warm Springs DE plant, received a check from Warm Springs Community Health Education Team (C.H.E.T.) in the amount of $250. Jackie's winning drawing design was placed on a banner provided and made by Sign Crafters of Madras. The banner was displayed at the Agency Long House during the Veterans Day Pow-wow and will also be used during the Warm Springs Tobacco Awareness Society months.

The C.H.E.T. department personnel would like to thank the other logo entry participants and are inviting the community to participate and get involved during this important health issue.

For more information about the Warm Springs Tobacco Awareness Society months, contact Anson Begay at Community Health Education Team office, (541) 553-4922 or just stop by their office located at the Vern Jackson home.

Moses and Sohappy enjoying their senior year

(Spilyay asks "What's Up?")

Is there someone special in your life that has inspired you so deeply you look up to as a hero?

Owen Danzuka (13), "I look up to my dad as a hero because he's always there for me. He takes me fishing, hunting, to the movies and he also plays baseball and basketball with me."

Myrtle Suppah (11), "It has to be my grandparents, because I love them and they buy me stuff and they're there for me."

Julian Wallulatam (10), "Angie, is the hero in my life. Angie is the one who cared for me and took me out of the group home and let me come stay with her. Angie is nice to me and does fun stuff with me. I plan on having a nice Thanksgiving and Christmas staying with my hero Angie."

Kayleen Clements (13), "Yes, I look up to my dad because he's so out spoken and always knows what to say, when to say it, who to say it to, and he's not afraid to speak up to anyone when he knows he's right. My dad is an all-around dad, he's funny, dorky, understanding and he's always there when I need him."

My dad taught me everything I know about how to play basketball. He used to take me fishing, but I don't like it any more. Dad also takes us to the movies and to other activities. I could go on-and-on about my dad, but the list will get too big."

Vennesa James (10), "The hero in my life is my mom because she always accepts me and tells me to stay in school. My mom is always there for me and tells me to never do drugs or stay out late."

Gary Villa (12), "The people I look up to as my hero's are my parents. My parents are the one's who brought me into this world and taught me everything they knew. I feel that at my young age, I've done much more than what my parents have ever done when they were growing up. I look up to my mom and dad as hero's for always being there for me when I need them."

Desrai Wells (11), "Yeah, it's my aunt Marty because she involves me and my brother in activities like basketball, movies, ice skating stuff like that. I look up to her and enjoy being around her."

Aaron Main (11), "I guess I would have to say my grandfather because he has been a police officer and has served in the Army. I would like for him to take me fishing and hunting someday."
