

Jefferson County Fair enjoyed by children young and old

Louie, Louie, the Kingsman start things off on the main stag during the Jefferson County Fair

Chrissy and Brandi enjoy this ride.

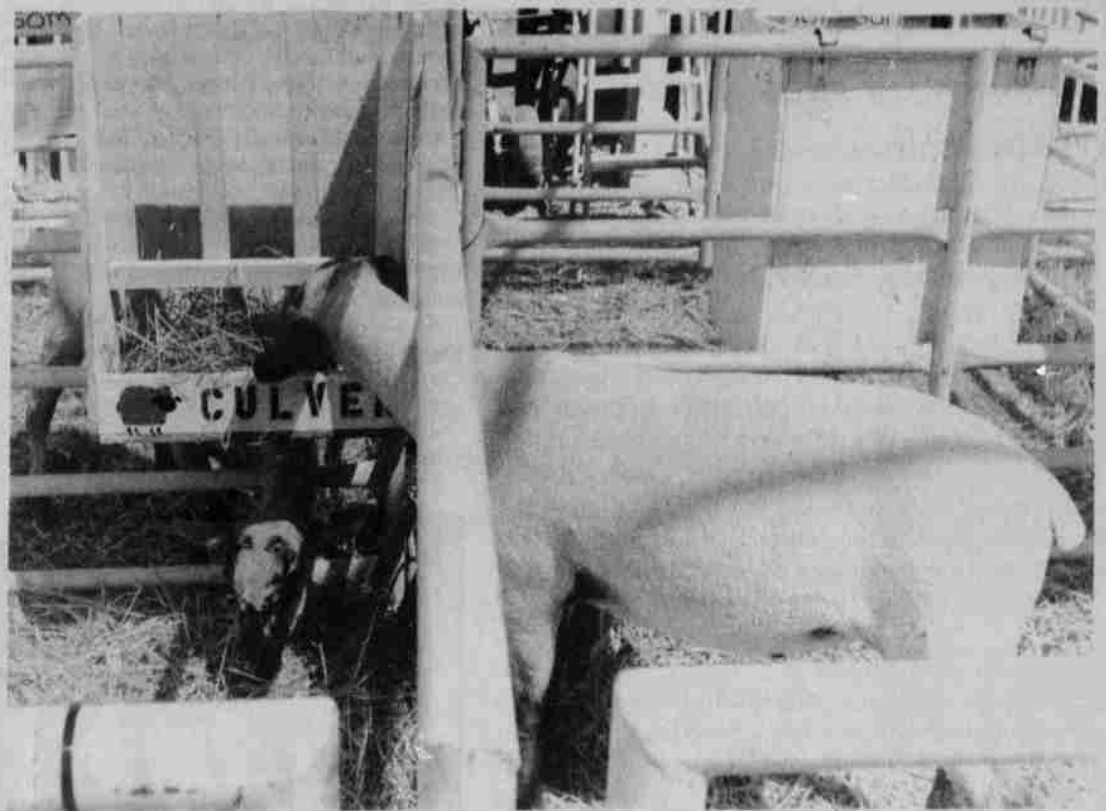

Native American crafts were judged and displayed at the fair.

Children from the Head Start Program came to see the animals.

The human cannon was another exciting event at the fair

"Hay" his food tastes better than ours.

Warm Springs youth has champion steer

Young McInturff's steer sold at $3 per pound Saturday, July 24

Story by Robert Medina

With the supervision of Warm Springs OSU Extension Agent Robert Pawelek, Madras FFA student James McInturff is the first participant from Warm Springs to enter a champion steer in the Jefferson County Fair. McInturff is the 15-year-old son of Roxanne McInturff. The steer is a Maine-Anjou cross and weighted at 1,360 lbs. McInturff's steer took 2nd place in the Heavy weight, and 1st in his class. Steer judging was held July 21, 1999. The steer was purchased by Madras Double Press Inc. during the Jefferson County Fair Auction Saturday evening, July 24. McInturff's steer sold at $3 per pound. Madras Double Press Inc., compresses bales of hay for shipment and delivers to feedlots in Japan Giving McInturff a hug, Mickey Brunoe said, "I'm so proud of my grandson. He raised the animal all by himself with little help." Brunoe said his grandson didn't give up, instead he kept up with his project and believed in himself. "He was persistent and he dedicated many hours to this animal. The whole family is so proud and happy for him."
