Seeking adults for leadership opportunities

The American Indian Scouting Association will hold its 43rd annual seminar for youth and adults at the South Dakota Schools of Mines and Technology, in Rapid City, SC, July 22-26. The hosts will be the Oglala Sioux Tribe.

Participants will include both Indian and non-Indian youth (ages 12-17) and adults, who explore strategies for youth development and improvement of life in Indian in Indian communities through Girl and Boy Scouting programs and services.

Participants will share tribal traditions through native dress, dancing, music, and sports. Our exciting tour in the heart of the Black Hills will include a visit to the Crazy Horse Memorial and Mt. Rushmore.

A highlight of the seminar is the awarding of the national Joseph T. Provost Youth Award and the Francis X. Guardipee Grey Wolf Award, which recognizes distinguished service to Indian youth.

Workshops will be available to assist adults responsible for leadership and administration of youth programs by providing training and a forum for the exchange of ideas.

AISA is a collaboration between Indian tribal leaders, and two of our nation's leading youth agencies— Girl Scouts of the USA and Boy Scouts of America.

This national organization was formed to provide training for adults and leadership opportunities for American Indian youth.

The American Indian Scouting Association seeks to enable American Indian Youth to develop their talents and capabilities so they will be able to maintain their cultural identities while building bridges which will allow them to be successful and productive members of both societies.

The fee for the seminar is $145 for adults and youth. After June 26 the fee will increase by $20. This fee includes room and board and membership. Funds are available for Youth Scholarship Grants, based on financial need.
