The Indian Warrior: Information And Tips for the Veterans

The Department of Veterans Affairs
Medical Center
3710 Southwest U.S. Veterans Hospital Road
Portland, OR 97207

Vietnam Veterans Recognition Day
9:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Oregon National Guard Armory

Welcome Note: From James Tuschmidt, MD, MM
Chief Executive Officer

Dear Veterans:
I am proud and pleased to welcome you to the Portland VA Medical Center's 6th Annual Veterans Conference. This conference is an important part of our continued commitment to quality health care for all veterans. Since our first conference in 1995, many changes have taken place regarding eligibility and other health care issues. It is my hope that you will find the conference informative and helpful.

At the Portland VA Medical Center our Primary Care Teams ensure that patients receive quality preventive health care, and work diligently to coordinate services for patients with major health problems. We have been, and will continue to be, persistent in our efforts to improve the value of healthcare services, our customer service, and to increase accessibility for our nation's veterans.

Please take this opportunity to visit with our staff and fellow veterans, and on behalf of all our employees, let me express our sincere thanks for your continued loyalty to the Portland VA Medical Center. We are very proud to serve all those who have served this country.

Theme: New Beginnings: Images of Vietnam
Goals:

Recognize the Vietnam Veteran as Heroes and Heroines.

Offer avenues of encouragement and support for those veterans who have not been able to move forward of occasionally encountered setbacks.

Provide information on VA services and benefits, new policies, regulations and processes, as well as community veteran services and programs.

Offer clinic screenings and counseling.
Assist veterans in applying for enrollment in the Medical Center.

Clarify the roles of VA services... Medical Center, Regional Office, Veteran Integrated Service Network (VISN), Oregon Dept. of Veterans Affairs (ODVA).

Offer participating organization an opportunity to partnership.
The greatest possession you have is the 24 hours directly in front of you.

We Are Here To Serve You - Past up.

A Veteran Is:

America's war veteran come in a wide variety of sizes, shapes and ages. Their collective experience spans two world wars and several foreign conflicts. They have followed war mules through Flanders Field, dropped from landing barges onto the beaches of Normandy, faced the icy cold of Porkchop Hill and trudged the rice paddies of the Mekong Delta.

But, regardless of differences in makeup and experience, all veterans share a common bond a brotherhood of memory and hard-won wisdom that helps define their character.

A veteran is the first man up as the flag passes by on the 4th of July, and the last one down, for he has been a witness to the blood and tears that make this and all other parades possible.

A veteran is a man of peace, soft-spoken, slow to anger, quick to realize that those who talk most about the glory of war are those who know least about its horror. He never jokes about war, he's been there, and still sees on memory's vivid screen the wounded and the dying, the widows and orphans, he knows first-hand that no war is good and that the only thing worse than war is slavery.

He is friend to all races of man, begrudging none; he carries with him the knowledge that it is not the man who is the enemy but enslavement and false ideologies. Those whom he once faced across the hostile battle lines, he now esteems as his brothers.

A veteran is at once proud and humble; proud of the fact that in 200 years no foreign enemy has set foot on American soil; and humble in the realization that many of his comrades who helped him make this lofty aim a reality, never returned.

More than anything else, a veteran loves freedom. He can spend a whole afternoon doing nothing—just because it suits him, and just because he has paid the price to do what he wants with his time. He also takes a personal pride in the freedom of others—in men and women attending the church of their choice; in friends voting how they choose; and in children sleeping quietly, without fear to interrupt their slumber.

A veteran is every man grown up a little taller—a person who understands the awesome price of life's intangibles of freedom, justice and democracy. His motto is to live and let live. But, if he had to, if he had to choose between servitude and conflict, the veteran would once again answer a call to duty.

Because, above all—above all else—a veteran is an American.
