

Festival in Portland celebrates tribal culture

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission, in conjunction with Indian Art Northwest, is hosting the Wy-Kan-Ush-Pum festival and Indian art market.

The event happens at Waterfront Park in Portland, on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 3-4.

As a member of the Inter-Tribal Fish Commission, the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs, with Umatilla, Yakama and Nez Perce tribes, are helping sponsor the festival.

The contribution from the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs came through Kah-Nee-Ta Resort and Casino.

The Wy-Kan-Ush-Pum festival will include native live music and other entertainment by a variety of performers. There will be traditional story telling, a fine art market sponsored by Indian Art Northwest, traditional arts and crafts demonstrations, tribal dancing and drumming.

For youth, there will be free jet boat rides on the Willamette to the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry (OMSI).

Children ages 17 and younger are encouraged to create works of art for Wy-Kan-Ush-Pum. The artwork will be displayed at OMSI. Children can hand deliver their art to the museum by riding a jet boat.

The musical entertainment on Saturday is from 11 a.m. till

10 p.m., and includes the following performers: Obo Addy, Jim Basnight, Native Roots, Bobby Torres, Charmaine Neville.

The entertainment on Sunday, from 11 a.m. till 9 p.m., includes performances by: Boka Marimba, Spider Moccasin, Arigon Starr, Portland All-Star Band, and Curtis Salgado.

For information, call 503-238-3570.

Regarding the festival's children art contest: Each child who brings to the event a piece of artwork representing the theme Salmon and Water will receive free admission on Saturday, entry into the art contest, and a sticker for free admission on Sunday.

Indian Art Northwest artists will judge entries on Saturday afternoon.

On Sunday, Aug. 4, prizes will be awarded to the young artists in three age groups (5 and younger, 6-12, and 13-17.) The award ceremony will happen on the main stage.

Powwow at Simnasho a success

By Selena Boise Spilyay Tymoo

Fun times and reunions with friends were the overall scheme of the first powwow held at the Simnasho Arbor Friday, July 19. The Simnasho Arbor was placed near the new rodeo grounds behind the former Simnasho School.

Captain Moody kept the hamburgers and hot dogs barbecuing as the guests arrived to eat.

There were five drums on hand to sing for the dancers and plenty of dancers to keep the grounds moving.

"Snagging at the 49" was played by the adults that included intertribal dancing, snagging at the 49 (owl dancing), frybread in the oven (London bridges), and circle dance (five dancers). People were eliminated as these each occurred.

The children played a similar game with sweeping the teepee, dodge the arrow, looking over the horse (as pictured), sending smoke signals, and standing in line for cheese. They were eliminated slowly as well.

A treat to everyone was the presence of Allen Elston and his family, his wife Juanita, daughters Alicia, Marcia, and Donna, and of course the grandchildren. Elston's daughters performed an exhibition team dance because they were former champions of the Wannabee dance at Pi-Ume-Sha, Alicia says, "five years in a row!"

The Elston's grandchildren enjoyed the games as well. They were good sports in the musical chairs game. They were very convincing doing the dodge the arrow, as they would dive to the ground.

Fun times were had at the first powwow held at the Simnasho Arbor.

At the powwow all were honored to see P.F.C. Lawren Slockish (photo at top) return from Ft. Hood, Texas. Allen Elston and his family were honored at the powwow (above).

V.F.W. Auxiliary elects new officers

By Neda Wesley Secretary, Elliot Palmer V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary

Officers for 2002 were chosen in April, and were legally under oath during the same month. Newly elected State of Oregon President Judy Jackson officiated.

By the sweat of the fundraisers we have paid each member's dues for 2001-02, which needs to be reimbursed to the Auxiliary.

New members are Roberta "Bobbi" Suppah, Madene Meanus, Muriel Suppah, Lois Knight and Janice Smith Hardin.

The new members have paid their $15 dues. Year 2002-03 dues are now due.

To date the local Auxiliary has paid all national, state and district dues, as well as the treasurer's bond, calling cards for our loved ones who are presently in the services, cancer and hospital insurance for all our membership.

Also, we have donated $300 toward the Eyerly firefighters for bottled water and antiseptic moist towelettes. Good job, fundraisers.

During the 2001 veterans nationally recognized day, the V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary and Post were in a dilemma. We had no place to serve our annual veterans dinner, and host a program to recognize our soldiers who answered the call to defend our country.

It was during this same time my dear friend and relative Nina Rowe's funeral was happening. I opted to cook for the veterans honor dinner. I told my good friend and sister Nina, "I'm glad I was forever here for you during your difficult time, go in peace sister."

I want to especially thank Austin Greene for preparing the community center for our dinner, parade-in and the program.

We realize it took hard work to arrange the gym for this event. We also know Austin is honoring his father and uncles who served in the wars. A big thank-you is better late than never, Austin.

We also want to thank the members of the Shaker Church for allowing us to cook at the church, and to all the labor that was endless for this event.

It has been brought to our attention through the national headquarters that many of our veterans do not have completed discharge dates that coincide with the national headquarters' records, according to the information taken from an article from the Madras Pioneer. In order for you to receive the benefits or honors due you, we would like to have your records of what branch you were in.

Information would include entry dates and discharge dates, as well as which years and countries you were in. We do not intend to overlook any veterans who are due the recognition that veterans deserve.

I would also like to encourage all our members to make an effort to be present at our monthly meetings on the first Tuesday of each month. The trustees need to get together and audit the treasurer's books, and the secretary's records. Future planning include auction sales, luncheons and a big flea market to go toward the Honor Monument for our veterans, which will be located near The Museum at Warm Springs.

Candidate visits

Course teaches business skills

The Small Business Development Center is offering business classes to tribal members.

An Onaben class, "You and Your Business Idea," is scheduled for 6-9 p.m. on Sept. 12. The class will be held at the small business center, tuition is $10.

Another Onaben class, "Starting a Successful Business," is scheduled to begin Sept. 19, meeting from 6-9 p.m.

The class will meet every Thursday thereafter for ten weeks. Tuition is $100.

Tribal members who successfully complete the Onaben class can receive reimbursement of the tuition cost from the Small Business Development Center.

Onaben enables Native Americans to realize dreams of a better quality of life through owning and operating a successful business.

Onaben accomplishes this mission by providing accessible business programs, services, financing, and positive business-to-business relationships.
