

EMS Week includes demo

On May 20, as part of the EMS week activities, an extrication demonstration took place at the Warm Springs Market. The patient (Michelle) was found in the car, checked for oxygen and neck injuries, then extricated from the vehicle using the jaws of life. She was then strapped onto the stretcher, and taken to the airlift landing. After take off, airlift returned for the community to view the craft. EMS week activities were held all last week starting with a coloring contest.

Danzuka returns

A familiar face back to the community is Gerald Danzuka, who was recently hired as Small Business Center counselor. He became part of the workforce April 14.

He is there for members of the community who are in business, or are interested in becoming a small business owner. He will lead anyone with a business idea through the process from the idea, to a completed business plan for possible financial backing.

Currently he is part of the team process of developing web pages for small business owners. Starting with the photos, and front-page design, websites can become a link from the Warm Springs tribes website.

There are 110 small businesses in Warm Springs. Out of those, there is only 15-25 active. And of those active, six will be developing web pages.

He was attending New Mexico State University, majoring in Business Administration and Accounting.

He attended school at Haskell receiving a degree in liberal arts. Continuing school, he majored in business, recently emphasizing accounting.

Before leaving Warm Springs three years ago Danzuka was an Appeals Court Judge and Chairman of the Housing Authority.

78' Grads a joyous group

They might have been referred to as antsy or the young and the restless, but whatever, the 137 jubilant graduating seniors of Madras High School listened patiently and quietly to speeches, prayers and songs dedicated especially to them at the graduation ceremony on Friday, May 26.

Twenty-six of those graduating were from Warm Springs. Those happy graduates were Gladys "Mona" Jim, Larry Squiemphen, Tim Greene, LaDonna Picard, Whitney Miller, Desi Hurtado, Gerald Danzuka, Winona Spino, Sally Rhoan, Althea Scott, Mike Leno, Matt Conner, Simon Kalama, Alex Smith, Corinna Sohapp, Caroline Strong, Owen Danzuka, Brian Conner, Anthony Shadley, Marla Patt, Jamie Smith, Jackie Estimo, Leontyne Tanewasha, Mina Shike, Arlene Wewa, and Roger Stwyer.

Calvin Chinn opened the ceremony with the invocation and a message concerning happiness. "Your search for happiness is not to relive the past or put all your hopes in the future, but to live fully in the present."

The address, which was delivered by Robert Anderson Senior Account Executive of Belrod, Hammerback, Inc., was regarding self-confidence. He said that he had read in the London Times that physical illness, emotional problems, personal indebtedness, lack of knowledge, and lack of plan for life were listed as the five reasons for loss of self-confidence. He elaborated on each cause and also added, "each of you is the rider of the horse of life, you must make the horse take you where you want to go in life. Set your goals, believe in yourself, and stick to your convictions."

The seniors accepted their diplomas in different ways. One boy jogged to have his diploma handed to him and another yelled triumphantly, not once, but twice, after receiving his "reward."

The benediction was presented to the capacity crowd by Sally Rhoan, as she performed the "Lord's Prayer" in Indian sign language.

The commencement was ended with a recording of Fleetwood Mac's song, "Don't Stop."

Tree planting honors veterans

Included in the tenth anniversary celebration of the Museum at Warm Springs, a dedication of the Korean War Memorial Tree Plant will take place May 31, 11 a.m.

During the mid-1990s Frank Lockyear of the Oregon Lions came up with an idea to plant seedlings. These seedlings, more than 58,000, are a representation of each Korean War Veteran in the United States. Past District Governor Lion Jay Binder, is scheduled on the agenda.

ReTree International and the Oregon Lions participated in this planting by planting several evergreen seedlings adjacent to the Museum at Warm Springs. Contract planters on reservation forested-land were instrumental in completing the bulk of the planting.

The Museum dedication is an opportunity for ReTree International, the Oregon Lions, and All Warriors' Society to come together and celebrate the planting. A dedication of the Korean War Memorial Tree Plant will take place as ReTree International has a bronze plaque to be mounted inside the Museum At Warm Springs.

ReTree International is looking forward to renewing friendships with members of the All Warriors Society, those Native Americans still living who served in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, and Coast Guard during the Korean War in the early 1950s.

Following are the Korean War Veterans from Warm Springs who were honored with the planting of a tree:

George Aguilar, Sr., Larry

Arthur, Fred Blodgett, Sr., Curtis Brown, Bruce Brunoe, Sr., Theodore Brunoe, Lawrence Cohem, Albert Comedown, Richard Craig, Gerald Danzuka, Sr., Kenneth Danzuka, Orville Danzuka, Harrison Davis, Delbert Frank, Sr., Wilson Frank.

Johnny George, Allen Gilbert, Sr., Elton Greeley, Melvin Greeley, Hamilton Greeley, David Greene, Levi Greene, Eugene Greene, Sr.

Eldred Heath, Kathleen Heath, Vernon Henry, Milton Holliday, Ben Holliday, Sr., Louise Jackson, Cyril P. Johnson, Reuben Johnson, Sr.

Henry Kalama, Jr., Martin Kalama, Perry Kalama, Roland Kalama, Sr., David Kalani, Richard Kalani, Ronald Kalani, Levi Keo, Charles Knight, Louis Leclair, Jr., Wilkens Leonard.

Jeffery Sanders, Sr., Robert Sanders, Danny Scott, Harvey Scott, Leroy Scott, Cecil Seyler (NTM), Nat Shaw, Raymond Shike, Sr., Bertson Simtustus, Lloyd Smith, Fabian D. Sutterlee, Sr., Delton Switzler, Virgil Switzler, Chester VanPelt, Sr.

Grant Waheneka, Sr., Felix Wallulatum, Dallas Winishut, Sr., Reginald Winishut, Omar Winishut, Sr., Chesley Yahrtin, Sr.

These veterans were being honored for their contribution to the efforts to safeguard the Republic of Korea and uphold liberal democracy around the world. Kim Dae-jung, President of the Republic of Korea has expressed thanks to these veterans and many across the United States.

She stated, that Koreans hold dear in their hearts the conviction, courage and spirit of sacrifice shown by selfless friends, who enabled them to remain a free democratic nation.

"Half a century after the Korean War, we honor you and reaffirm our friendship, which helped to forge the blood alliance between our two countries. And we resolve once again to work with all friendly nations for the good of humankind and peace in the world," said Dae-jung.

Other Veteran news

Lori Piestewa was the first American Indian woman to be killed in action. She was a true warrior and hero. Plans are being made to honor her May 24-26 in Washington D.C. Tribes are urged to send a delegation or color guard to this historical tribute to Pfc. Piestewa. It is time that United States honored Indian men and women warriors for their service.

A member of the Hopi tribe, Piestewa was with a convoy of the 507th Maintenance Company that was ambushed March 23.

She was a single mother raising two children in Tuba City, Arizona.

She was always interested in a military career. As a high school student she served as commanding officer of Junior ROTC, and her father and grandfather served in the Army.

"She will be remembered as a daughter, as a proud mother of two, as a good friend able to comfort others in distress," says Hopi Tribal Council Chairman Wayne Taylor.
