

Tribal ranches to provide hunting

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs manage the Pine Creek, Oxbow and Forrest Ranches for wildlife and fish habitat.

The tribes are offering limited numbers of big game hunting access permits to each property for 2003.

Big game permits are divided equally between tribal members and the general public.

The permit application deadline July 31.

The 34,000-acre Pine Creek Ranch is located near Fossil on the lower John Day River.

The Forrest and Oxbow Ranches are located on the Middle Fork John Day River, north of John Day.

To apply for a permit, mail in a legible photocopy of your tribal identification card.

Tribal members will need a ceded area tag to hunt. Specify which season and game unit you are applying to hunt. You may apply for one deer and one elk hunt. Non-tribal members may apply by mailing a photocopy of a purchased tag.

Party applications are limited to three people per party. Parties are entered once in the drawing and will not be divided. No party hunting will be available on the Forrest and Oxbow properties.

Golfers tee up in Santa Fe

The Oregon Columbia River Junior Golf Team will be competing in the 2003 National Native American Junior Golf Championship in Santa Fe, New Mexico on July 28-31.

The team members are Davey Culpus, Rodney Katchia and Jordan Stacona, all of Warm Springs; and Jonas Moses and Sidney Jones, of Pendleton.

Each of these young men has played on either the Madras High or Pendleton High golf teams.

The Santa Fe tournament will provide an opportunity for Native American junior golfers to play in a first-class championship event on three of Indian Country's premier golf courses. There will be a special appearance by Notah Begay III, Native American professional golfer.

Courses to be played are the Towa Golf Course, Black Mesa Golf Course and Pueblo de Cochiti Golf Course in Santa Fe. Each of the players will compete in individual medal play and in team competition.

The team had a fundraiser golf scramble at the Wildhorse Resort and Casino Golf Course and the Kah-Nee-Ta High Desert Resort and Casino Golf Course.

These fundraisers have helped pay for the airfare, lodging, rental van, tournament fees, practice round fees, meals and uniform expenses.
