

Candidates of the Pi-Ume-Sha 2004 Court

Hello, my name is Mallory Aurel Smith. I'm 10 years old and I am running for Senior Court for Pi-ume-sha Treaty Days.

I'm an enrolled member of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs. Also, I'm from Oglala Sioux decent.

My parents are Alvis and Vivian Smith III, and my mother is Juanita Kalama. My grandparents on my father's side are Alvis and Sissy Smith Sr., and my great grandparents are Alvis Smith Sr. and the late Ramona Whiz. My grandparents on my mother's side are Ross Kalama Sr. and Greta WhiteElk.

I enjoy attending youth leadership conferences, pow-wows, playing softball, basketball, root digging and picking huckleberries.

Irukdi wigwa naika itgulxam. Kaika ichxliu Revonne Johnson. Naika akchmax ichaxliu Gladys Thompson. Naika akshkix ixhaxliu Marcia Minthorn. Naika wanaqsh ichaxliu Reva Johnson.

Good day my people. My name is Revonne Johnson. My great grandmother is Gladys Thompson. My grandmother is Marcia Minthorn. My mother's name is Reva Johnson.

I am 7 years old and I am running for junior candidate for Pi-Ume-Sha Treaty Days 2004.

I am a jingle and Wasq'u social dancer. I am currently learning the Numu and Wasq'u lanaguges.

I like to help gather roots and huckleberries. I would be a good role model for the Confederated Tribes. I thank all the people for their support.

May God bless you all.
Bonnedooa.

Graduation banquet on June 17

On my grandfather's side is Charlotte (Barney) Mack and the late Aramuis Jackson of Klamath Falls.

I enjoy going to the longhouse and helping where I can, dancing, root digging, picking huckleberries and hunting. Also I'm looking forward to getting my Indian name in the near future.

Master Gardners offer advice

How does your garden grow?

Questions like these are exactly what Tina Burnside and Edith McBean are here to answer. Master gardeners Tina and Edith will be on the reservation this summer in the OSU Extension Service Building on Mondays, to help with your gardening dilemmas. Just call them at 553-1520, or stop by the office and leave a message with your concerns. They will do their best to find you the answers. Their plans for the summer will include home horticulture training's for the community, plant clinics, and watch for the bi-weekly publications in the Spilyay Tymoo newspaper.

They also will be looking for participants that want to get their hands dirty. If your fingers are getting itchy to get started with your summer gardening, here is an excellent article taken from The Source: Gardening - How to, March/April 2004.

Grow Great Veggies in Pots.

1. Choose a large enough container. The smallest containers suitable for growing vegetables are eight to 10 inches wide and 10 inches deep. This size will have limited room for roots, soil, moisture and nutrients. Large containers, about 16 inches wide and 12 inches deep give more options. Whiskey barrels are ideal for most vegetables, but are difficult to move but hold moisture the best.

2. Use nutrient rich potting mixes.
3. Keep containers watered.
4. Make sure plants have good drainage.
5. Use slow release fertilizers.

Containers 8 to 10 inches wide and 10 inches deep, or larger:

This size works well for herbs, petite greens, and a few upright compact vegetables. Eggplants: compact varieties with small fruits.

Greens: arugula, corn salad, cress. Herbs: chives, cilantro, marjoram, oregano, rosemary, parsley, thyme, tarragon, basil.

Containers 16 inches wide and 10 inches deep.

This size is perfect for the plants mentioned above, plus the following: Broccoli, eggplants, horseradish, peppers, all tomatoes.

Containers 20 inches wide and 16 deep, or larger, including small wine barrels:

The extra width gives you room for plants that spread. For even more space, add a trellis to grow pole beans and peas. All the plants listed above can grow in these large containers, plus the following:

Beans, beets, broccoli, peas, dwarf sweet snap types.
