

Reading program needs volunteers

Help change the world in one hour a week.

If you can read and give one hour a week, you have what it takes to make a positive difference in the life of a child.

The SMART program (Start Making A Reader Today) is a volunteer based, non-profit book and reading program for kindergarten to third grade students.

Volunteers spend one hour per week, Tuesday or Thursday, at Warm Springs Elementary School reading one-on-one for half an hour with two children.

Each child is also given two books per month to take home and keep.

The ability to read, and a love of books, is fundamental to a child's success in life. Please, if you can:

Help us bring the world of books and learning to the children in our community. Volunteering is easy.

The SMART program provides everything you need for one-on-one weekly reading sessions with two students during the school day.

If you, or someone you know, can donate one hour per week through mid-May, please call the coordinator for Warm Springs Elementary, Myrna Frank at 317-3225.

Young Achiever Wyatt Rodin Sponsored by Les Schwab

Fourth-grader Wyatt Rodin is the Young Achiever at Warm Springs Elementary. "I go in and out of Wyatt's classroom and every single time I go in, he's doing exactly what he's supposed to be doing," said Principal Dawn Smith.

Wyatt lives in Madras, but both his parents, Rene and Kevin Rodin, work at Warm Springs Elementary; so Wyatt goes to school there. His favorite thing about school, he said, "is learning new things." His favorite subject to study is math, particularly division and addition.

After school he likes to play with his three dogs. One is a black lab, one is a miniature pincher, and the other dog is of an unknown breed. The dog's name is Easta, which is an Indian word meaning "baby animal," said Wyatt.

Petroglyph thief held after guns, drugs found at Reno home

RENO, Nev. (AP) - One of two men convicted of stealing ancient American Indian petroglyphs was ordered into federal custody Monday after police found guns and drugs at his home.

U.S. District Judge Howard McKibben had allowed John Ligon, 41, Reno, to remain free without bail before he was scheduled to surrender Nov. 10 to begin serving a two-month jail sentence. But federal prosecutors told the judge Monday that Ligon was a flight risk and a threat to society after a Reno police search found nearly a pound of marijuana, drug paraphernalia and at least 30 firearms, including five stolen guns.

"This man is a felon and he's got all these weapons," Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Rachow said, adding that the Sept. 18 search also turned up a scale, which raises questions about selling drugs. Reportedly, Ligon has been unemployed for 11 years, living off a trust fund with a net worth of about $6 million.
