

Traveling exhibition to visit Warm Springs

The National Park Service traveling exhibition "Corps of Discovery II: 200 Years to the Future" opened for the first time in Oregon this month. It will visit six Oregon sites - including Warm Springs - before it leaves the state next spring.

The central feature of Corps of Discovery II is the "Tent of Many Voices." This 150-seat auditorium is a venue for cultural arts demonstrations, folklore, music, living history presentations, readings from the expedition journals and more. Programs reflect a spectrum of nature, culture and history topics.

In addition to the walk-through exhibit, "Corps of Discovery II" has a 25-foot keelboat replica, a 16-foot diameter Plains Indian lodge and an explorer camp complete with a 25-foot dugout canoe.

"Corps of Discovery II" is a joint effort of federal and state agencies, private and nonprofit organizations, and American Indian tribes. The National Park Service provides major funding, exhibit design and production, transportation, and support staff through the Lewis and Clark National Historic Trail, based in Omaha, Neb.

"Corps II" appears in Warm Springs April 22-25 of next year.

Members comment on Wintergreen timber sale

By Bill Rhoades

An interdisciplinary team from the Forestry and Natural Resources branches has been collecting tribal member comments on a timber sale being proposed for 2007. Responses to a number of comments and concerns are included with this article.

The Wintergreen 2007 Timber Sale will target approximately 38.2 million board feet of timber in the upper Warm Springs River watershed. The harvest approximates the annual allowable cut (recalculated every five years) for this planning unit, which is based on long-term sustainability.

The process for planning this sale officially began on July 13 when the project interdisciplinary team (PIDT) completed its second and final scoping meeting with the tribal public. Meetings were held for Agency, Seekseequa and Simnasho districts, initiating the process to complete a draft plan.

A slide show and maps were used to identify potential treatment areas, which were described by project leader Matt Jimenez and other members of the technical staff. A field review of the proposed project area, and other recent projects, was conducted during the annual Timber Tour on August 17.

Extension 'On the Road' again

By Fara Currin
Extension Agriculture Agent

OSU Extension on Wednesday, Nov. 2, will be visiting the Simnasho Longhouse to present a series of activities for the whole family.

This is a continuation of the program that made its rounds last year. The program was a success, so we decided to continue it this year as well.

The evening will begin at 6 p.m. with dinner and proceed with classes that will start at 7 p.m. The topics will range from shopping and budgeting tips from the Home Economics agent, to kids' activities from the 4-H program, live horse care tips from the Agriculture agent, and a fall planting activity from the Master Gardeners of Warm Springs.

There is something for everyone to participate in, so come and spend the evening with us.

There will be similar programs planned at the Agency Longhouse in January, and at the Seekseequa Fire Station in March. For more information, please contact the Extension office at 553-3238.
