The event honors Todd Evans Beamer, a Madras scholar/athlete who drowned with his four dogs in 1997. The event funds a spirit scholarship that honors the popular coach and teacher.

Gathering to share views on community health care

The Mountain View Community Health Improvement Partnership invites area residents to a public meeting this evening, Thursday, June 28 at the Jefferson County Senior Center at 860 S.W. Madison St., Madras.

The meeting is titled, "Health for All 2006," and is sponsored by the Mountain View Community Health Improvement Partnership. The meeting will help all of those organizations and people involved with providing health care to better understand what area residents think about local health care, and what they expect in terms of quality and services.

The event is one part of a larger community health assessment being conducted by the Community Health Improvement Partnership. The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. All area residents are invited to attend. Snacks, refreshments and childcare are provided.

The purpose of the meeting is to get area residents to work together in one session to generate a list of changes or activities that would make the area a healthier place to live in.

"It will be a different kind of public meeting from any you have ever attended before," said Beth Ann Beamer, community coordinator for the Community Health Improvement Partnership. "We'll use a unique, enjoyable process. Everyone who attends gets to share their opinions about local health care services without having to actually stand up and speak to the entire audience."
